WATSON OPENS G. O. P. BATTLE FOR CONGRESS

Majority Leader Tries to Meet Criticisms Against Administration

OPPOSITION ALSO BUSY

Practically No Attention Paid Heretofore to Democratic Strategy

Copyright, 1930, By Post Pub. Co.
Washington (CPA)—The Republican national committee has come and gone, and the administration has arranged to present his formal resignation as soon as the senate adjourns, and Senator Watson, majority leader, has started the oratory of defense of the work of congress. Mr. Watson's radio speech, pointing out that Mr. Hoover had his way with congress on fifteen measures and was reversed on only one or two in the opening gun in an attempt to meet the criticism of the Hoover administration which have been piling up in recent months without much of a defense from any quarter.

The president has been very busy negotiating with congress and trying to get through legislation in which the administration was especially interested that practically no attention has been paid to the strategy of the administration's opponents.

The Democratic national committee has hardly lost a day in issuing some form of tirade against the administration, while the Republican headquarters has had to be careful about what it said in reply because of the president's disinclination to add to controversies he has already accumulated.

Thus, for instance, when the Republican national committee declared that it would be a political asset for the president if the London naval treaty were ratified, Senator Cope land of New York, Democrat, promptly suggested that the administration was playing politics with an important question of foreign policy.

DIFFICULTY FROM WITHIN

One of the chief embarrassments has been the fact that the Republican national chairman himself has been under fire, thus preventing a united front against the Democrats. It usually happens that when a national chairman is in difficulties, his whole organization loses momentum. Mr. Huston has indicated now that he intends to retire, only he wishes

Lady Doyle Sure She Has Spirit Word From Mate

Spiritualist Gives Her Message After Public Memorial Service

London (CP)—The widow of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle was heartened today by what she accepted as a spirit message from her husband, who died last week.

A medium, Mrs. Estelle Roberts, claimed to have received the message after a public memorial service at Albert hall had ended with fifty or more of the audience of 10,000 walking out in protest at five alleged spirit messages from other persons long dead and gone.

The medium claimed that each of these five stood behind her chair and pushed her. She said one was

Two Victims Claimed When Automobile Plunges Over 60-foot Embankment

Milwaukee (CP)—Eight persons were killed and several injured in weekend automobile accidents in Wisconsin. The dead: William Ragahn, 35, Racine; Miss Ellen Michaelson, 21, Chicago; Daniel McKaig, 57, Watertown; Irving Wehner, 29, Kenosha; Alfred Eick, 25, Milwaukee; John Trantino, 33, Madison; Fred Belanger, 15, Bayfield.

Jens Ruskin died of injuries when the car driven by his brother, Ole, was struck by a Milwaukee road train at highway crossing in village of Morrisonville.

When his car was crowded off the highway, it struck a post near Norway and killed Emerson Roberts. Roberts plunged through the windshield and died almost instantly.

Ragahn and Miss Michaelson, riding in the rumble seat of a car driven by Miss Jean Utter, Chicago, were killed near Fontana when the machine, speeding to make a grade, toppled over a 60-foot embankment. Miss Utter and Harold Olson, also of Chicago, received minor injuries.

McKaig, wealthy farmer, was killed and his wife was seriously injured when their automobile collided with another car at the intersection of the Watertown and Richwood roads in Juneau-co. Blinding headlights were blamed.

Police Take Wrong Trail To Nab Burke

Raiders Tipped Off by Informer but Latter Identified Wrong Man

Chicago (CP)—Fred Burke, the wispy Chicago killer, was not at the summer home near Newaygo, Mich., which police squads raided early yesterday. John Norton, chief of detectives, announced today. Norton, after questioning William A. Smith, reported host to Burke, said he was satisfied that Smith had been identified by the police informer as Burke because of his resemblance to the killer.

Informed that Burke had been hidden near the summer resort town, picked squads of heavily armed Chicago detectives, supported by Michigan police, swept into the lake region and arrested Smith. They reported they had missed Burke by half an hour.

The raid was made in connection with the slaying here Thursday of Thomas Bonner, a petty racketeer, who, police believed, was slain to prevent his divulging the hideout of the gangster.

Mrs. Bonner, police said, furnished them with the number of the automobile license of the car in which the killers of her husband escaped and a car bearing this license was seized in the Michigan raid.

PACT FRIENDS FIGHTING TO KEEP QUORUM

Watson and Borah Called Into White House Conference With Hoover

Washington (CP)—Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who helped to write the London naval treaty, gave the senate the reasons he believes it should be ratified while others of its friends worked on plans to speed action by assuring the constant presence of a quorum.

The second week of debate found 52 senators answering the opening roll call. President Hoover had consulted Senator Watson, the Republican leader, and Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, on the question of inducing absentee senators to return.

Two senators hitherto absent, Kean of New Jersey and Gould of Maine, were present today.

Robinson, who leads the Democrats, was freshly acquainted with the president's views. He and Senator Swanson, also a Democrat, were in the White House last night.

Addressing his colleagues, Robinson expressed hope that the treaty debate would not develop personal or partisan hostility or antagonism.

POPE PIUS WARNS OF BOLSHEVISM THREAT IN UNITED STATES

Vatican City (CP)—The solemn warning to "beware of the spread of Bolshevism" was uttered by the pope today during an audience which he gave to Monsignor John Augustine Ryan, rector of the Catholic university of America at Washington, D. C.

Expressing his pleasure at reports of the university's success, the pontiff imparted the apostolic blessing upon the faculty students and benefactors of the institution.

"The people of the United States do not realize how far Bolshevism has spread," the pope asserted forcibly.

The pope added that when he was in London some years ago before becoming pontiff, he was startled by the fact that Bolshevism already had obtained there.

His holiness warned America to "beware lest anything similar happen in your own country."

Monsignor Ryan said the pontiff showed considerable knowledge of conditions in the United States, "especially fully acquainted with business developments" of the last year.

Replying to a question put to him by the pontiff, the Washington clergyman said there were at least two million unemployed persons in the United States. The pope countered, "this is just the right time for the spread of Bolshevism. The people in the United States do not realize how far it has gone."

The pope had on his desk three letters prepared by nuns in the United States who had studied at the Catholic university. His holiness told Monsignor Ryan he was extremely surprised and pleased with the initiative shown by the nuns in going for doctors' degrees and pleaded with the learning displayed in their dissertations.

SAYS FRIENDS GAVE $67,214 ADDED FUNDS

"You Cannot Buy Illinois Landslides," She Tells Senate Committee

HITS BACK AT NYE

Criticizes Chairman for Saying She Spent Approximately $325,000

Chicago (CP)—Ruth Hanna McCormick championed her own cause before the senate's campaign funds committee today, declaring she had won the Illinois Republican senatorial nomination on a sincere presentation of the issues without excessive expenditures.

"It may be possible to buy certain elections in this country, but you cannot buy Illinois landlides," Mrs. McCormick said in epitomizing her 7,000-word statement to the committee at the opening of its public inquiry into the Illinois campaign.

"Political antagonists are inclined to repeat the warning that seats in the senate are sold to the highest bidder," the senatorial nominee said. "The fact is that in various primaries of the last ten years there have been repeated instances in which the candidate is familiar with these facts. I believe my opposition used more money in Illinois in the recent campaign than my volunteer friends and I used."

"My majority was the greatest ever received by a primary candidate for the senatorship in Illinois," she said, "and the campaign was won on sincere presentation of the issue."

Mrs. McCormick defended her personal expenditures of $232,500 and said an additional $67,214 was used in her behalf by volunteer organizations.

Mrs. McCormick criticized Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the special campaign funds committee, for asserting that his investigation had found she had spent approximately $325,000 instead of $352,500 she had reported.

The Republican senatorial nominee said Senator Nye's statement was inaccurate and misleading, based on the fact that she had voluntarily submitted a supplemental report setting forth the expenditure of the $7,214 before his investigators had inquired into those expenditures.

The $67,214 was used by three organizations and was obtained by contributions from friends and relatives, Mrs. McCormick said. The Voters Progress league used $44,000; the Illinois Young Peoples Republican club $15,000; and the Ruth Hanna McCormick Volunteers $8,214.

NEED LEGAL REMEDY

Mrs. McCormick said her report of expenses was "a document which should be scrutinized by all citizens interested in the problem of campaign expenditures."

"I hope my report thus will be a contribution to the public effort to understand our primary election system and offer a basis for remedial legislation."

Mrs. McCormick emphatically reiterated that she had conducted her campaign solely as an independent Republican candidate without any faction or group. She washed her hands of the Chicago "city hall machine" and acknowledged that she undoubtedly had been more or less benefited by the opposition of various factions to the candidacy of Senator Charles S. Deneen, her defeated opponent.

She called attention to the fact that her campaign cost her only $243,834, each 1,000 votes as compared with the $105,695 each 1,000 expenditure in the presidential campaign of President Hoover in Illinois.

She referred to the charge, given wide publication that $100,000 had been spent in her campaign. She challenged that statement and repeated that the report of her expenses made under oath to the committee on May 1 was correct and complete.

More than a score of witnesses were under subpoena to appear to-day.

BANK IN NORTH DAKOTA ROBBED BY FIVE BANDITS

Lehr, N. D. (CP)—Five men robbed the Farmers and Merchants bank of Lehr at 11:30 a. m. today and escaped with $3,000 cash and $5,000 travelers checks. One man was seated outside the bank in an automobile, while four entered the place.

TEXAS RANGERS OUT TO HALT VIOLENCE

Mobs Terrorize Negroes After White Woman Is Killed by Farm Hand

Shamrock, Texas (CP)—Texas rangers were enroute to Shamrock from Austin today to prevent further action of mobs which have terrorized Negroes here and driven them in a body from Erick, Okla., as reprisals for the slaying of Mrs. Henry Vaughan by a Negro farm hand.

Several hundred men invaded the Negro quarter here Saturday night threatening to burn the homes of Negroes who had not heeded posted warning to leave. Sheriff W. K. McMenroe, with a corps of deputies, dispersed the mob threatening to shoot anyone attempting to fire the Negroes' cottages.

Peace officers at the nearby town of Erick, former home of Mrs. Vaughan, said a mob of similar size had driven every Negro from the town.

Search Through Jungles For Missing British Flier

Rangoon, Burma (CP)—Searching parties penetrating the southern Burmese jungles today hoped to find Erick Hook, British airman, left dying last week by a buddy, Jimmie Matthews, who stumbled on, he said, to find help for both of them.

Little hope was held for success of the quest. Matthews himself, bruised and worn from the crash of their England to Australia airplane ten days ago and the subsequent march to civilization, discouraged hope. The jungle were he left Hook is known for its predatory wild beasts and hyenas.

Matthews Saturday reached Prome, 60 miles north of Rangoon, on the left bank of the Irrawaddy river, with the story that he and Hook cracked up their plane on a mountain side July 3 while flying be-

French Republic Commemorates Fall Of Bastille

BRAND PARADE CHIEF AFFAIR OF HOLIDAY

Past Glory and Present Strength Revealed in Military Review

Paris—(AP)—France's past military glory and strength today were visualized for the world in an imposing review and parade through the streets of the capital on the 151st anniversary of the fall of the Bastille.

Troops wearing the costumes of the days when the French conquered Algeria, 100 years ago and in all the uniforms of the many campaigns since marched past President Doumergue, the bay of Tunis, the ministers of war, the navy and air department and military attaches of all countries of the world, including the United States. Most of the ambassadors were in the presidential stand, among them sat the Japanese imperial prince, Takamatsu.

Overhead six squadrons of pursuit planes, dressed in arrowed formations, while brilliantly-uniformed envoys and military figures in automobiles, escorted by Republican guards, moved before units representing the present day arms of France in the great open space before the Invalids which Napoleon erected.

In the reviewing stand near the Champ Elysees the presidential party watched the greatest parade of troops of all arms since France, soon after the World war, abandoned the long famous military review at Longchamps.

GOVERAUX IN MARCH

General Gouraud, his right arm shot away and a foot crippled in the Dardanelles campaign, limped along atop, his sword extended in salute as he passed the stand with his mounted staff following.

Gray army tanks, infantry, cavalry, engineers and naval and military cadets and marines were in the line, their modern trappings contrasting strongly with the stage-like costumes of the Algerian conquerors of a century ago, conspicuous in their tall headdresses. After the Algerians came engineers in leather caps, executive units in cocked hats, looking as if they had walked out of an ancient picture.

Those oddly assorted and picturesque divisions maneuvered upon the wide avenues while bands played Rossini's "Moses," the zouaves, with their immense baggy trousers, singing in unison their old war songs.

Those interesting group, finally appeared in a flashing mass of white, two scores of Arab sheiks from the Sahara desert, mounted on steeds they had brought with them for this march. They were tall, dark warriors, symbolizing a branch of France's distant army numbering many available divisions.

Hundreds of thousands of citizens and visitors lined the route from the Invalides past the Madeleine to the city hall where the parade ended and the troops scattered.

ALLEGED INSANE WOMAN LEAVES LARGE ESTATE

New York—(AP)—Mrs. Ida A. Flagler is dead, leaving a fortune of $12,000,000, accumulated from a $1,000,000 trust fund created for her by the late Henry M. Flagler when he divorced her in 1901 on the grounds of incurable insanity.

She died Saturday of cerebral hemorrhage in her private cottage on the grounds of a sanitarium at Central Valley, N. Y., and was buried yesterday. She was at the sanitarium when Flagler obtained a divorce in Florida under a special act of the legislature as the state statutes do not recognize insanity as a cause for divorce. The marriage was in 1883.

The trust fund consisted largely of Standard Oil security, dividends from which multiplied the original sum twelve-fold. Flagler was one of the founders of Standard Oil.

The principal heirs are two nephews, George W. Taylor and William W. Taylor, and a grand-niece, Ruth E. Taylor of Princeton, N. J.

Flagler, who in addition to his interests was the builder and owner of the Florida East Coast railroad, married again.

FIRST COMMENCEMENT FOR MOUNTAIN SCHOOL

Washington—(AP)—Fifteen mountain children who have learned their reading and writing and arithmetic at the school which President and Mrs. Hoover established near their own lodge in Virginia are to hold their first commencement on Friday.

With the big day near, the mountain folk are hoping anxiously that the chief executive and Mrs. Hoover will be able to attend the exercises.

But the White House has been unable to give assurance of this because so long as the senate is in session, Mr. Hoover never knows until the last minute whether he will be able to leave the capital.

BOARD OF REVIEW IS NOT IN SESSION NOW

Under the impression that the board of review is now in session a number of taxpayers have come to city hall in the past week with the intention of conferring with the board. The board held a form meeting, according to law, last week, but adjourned until Aug. 4, when the assessor will be ready to turn over his books.

U. S. MAY EXPORTS TO NORTH AMERICAN COUNTRIES DROP OFF

Washington—(AP)—May exports of the United States were indicated today by the commerce department to have declined more to North American countries than to any other part of the globe.

The drop in import trade for May was most serious in shipments from Asia, which amounted to $50,000,000 less than imports from there in May, 1929. This was, due largely to the price fluctuation of a single commodity, crude rubber, which is one of the great items supplied the United States from abroad.

Canada, which is tending to become the best single customer of the United States, received exports from this country during the month to the value of $69,559,025, against $27,904,978 last May; imports from Canada for the same period were $37,570,957 against $44,330,153.

Exports to Great Britain were $47,601,968 against $54,430,924 and imports from Great Britain $21,355,376 against $29,762,229.

Exports to France were $15,109,543 against $13,248,343. Imports from France were $10,307,026 against $13,953,724.

Exports to Germany were $17,225,765 against $24,085,806 and imports from Germany $13,946,781 against $20,626,869.

One of the most remarkable changes in the trade figures affecting a single nation was that shown as to imports from Japan, which in May amounted to but $13,574,428, or nearly $20,000,000 less than the total of Japanese shipments to the United States in the same month last year.

Here also the market fortune of a single commodity—raw silk—contributed the principal cause of the change. The price of raw silk prices have touched points that are classed as new lows in commercial history during recent months.

BADGER FISHERMEN TO SEEK CLOSED SEASON

The Wisconsin Commercial Fishermen's association, at its annual convention Saturday at Port Washington, went on record favoring a strictly closed season and hit the practice of taking spawn during the closed season by the permit system as wasteful and contrary to the interest of conservation. The fishermen also discussed sizes of gill nets, methods of measuring gill nets, and conservation of baby trout. Officers named by the organization were: Joseph Bossler, Two Rivers, president; Walter Chambers, Kenosha, vice president; Oliver H. Smith, Port Washington, secretary-treasurer; Charles Draeger, Milwaukee, Henry Raats, Sheboygan, Frank LeCalf, Two Rivers, Hugo Heller, Two Rivers, George LaFond, Algoma and Thomas Goodman, Washington Island, directors. Samuel Sigman, Appleton, was reelected director and legal counsel, a position he has held since the group organized.

Mooney Witness Anxious To Repeat His Confession

Baltimore—(AP)—John MacDonald today availed his release by Baltimore authorities so he could go back to California to tell Gov. C. C. Young that his evidence 14 years ago which aided in sending Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings to prison for life, was untrue. Mooney and Billings were convicted of causing the deaths of ten persons in the 1916 bombing of a San Francisco Preparedness day parade.

MacDonald, who says he now desires to "undo the wrong he has done regardless of the personal consequences" was taken into custody Friday evening after his identification through a photograph published in a Baltimore newspaper.

In a sworn affidavit he said his testimony at the trial that he saw Mooney and Billings place a suitcase at the corner where the blast occurred was false. His affidavit charged he was coached before he took the witness stand, and that he was offered money for his testimony and had his expenses paid during the trial.

For the last few years MacDonald has been living under his own name in Baltimore working as a switchboard operator in an apartment house.

LABOR DEMANDS ACTION

San Francisco—(AP)—The executive committee of the state federation of labor today asked Governor Young to reopen the cases of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, serving life sentences for participation in the Preparedness day parade bombing here 14 years ago.

"We reiterate our firm belief in the innocence of Mooney and Billings," said a resolution adopted by the committee, "and strongly urge the governor of California to use every means at his disposal to have all the discredited witnesses brought before competent authorities so the flimsy excuses for the continued incarceration of these innocent men may be fully swept away."

NEW PHYSIOTHERAPIST ASSUMES DUTIES HERE

Miss Jean Holt, newly engaged physiotherapist at the Crippled Children school, arrived Monday morning and started work immediately. Miss Florence Phoenix, physiotherapist from the state department for disabled children, has been giving the physiotherapy treatments at the school in the absence of a regular instructor.

Miss Holt is a graduate of the Sargent school of expression of Boston university, and took her physiotherapy training at a summer session at Harvard university. She has had three years of experience in private offices of orthopedic surgeons in Providence, R. I. and spent 15 months in the physiotherapy department of the Mayo hospital at Rochester, Minn.

1,500 MARCH IN REVIEW AT CAMP DOUGLAS

General King on Duty, Spry as Ever—Leviton Makes "Wisecracks"

Camp Douglas—(AP)—With cannons roaring salute and nearly 1,500 men marching in review, Gov. Walter J. Kohler yesterday viewed Wisconsin National guardsmen on parade.

The governor arrived by special train after reviewing troops at Camp McCoy at Sparta. Hundreds of visitors arrived on a 25-coach excursion train.

Company K, 15th Infantry, led the parade. Troop A, 105th cavalry, put on an exhibition drill in full dress uniform along with the rough riding Troop E. Troop F gave a fancy regulation drill and the headquarters troop, the 53rd Cavalry brigade, demonstrated the fire hurdle. As a finale the massed formation passed the reviewing stand.

Maj. Gen. Charles King, 89-year-old veteran and "grand old man" of the Wisconsin National guard and State Treasurer, Solomon Leviton added picturesqueness to the review. General King refused to ride to the reviewing stand in an automobile, when offered a position of honor beside a colonel who has been suffering rheumatism.

"WALKS WITH REST"

"I have been in the service 69 years and never yet ridden in a car to my duty," he said. "I belong to the staff and not to a car. I will walk to my post with the rest." And he did.

The governor, dressed in moleskin riding breeches, riding boots, dark coat and felt hat, rode a dark chestnut horse from his own stable, sent from Madison for the occasion.

"Uncle Sol" Leviton kept staff members in good humor with "wisecracks" concerning his experiences at previous reviews:

"Once I stayed all night at camp," he said. "They assigned me to one of those cottages." he continued, pointing to one of the officers' quarters. "At 5 a. m. a big gun went off

No Flying Permit

A series of aerobatics in a borrowed plane above Roosevelt Field, N. Y. caused authorities to question Anthony Fokker, plane designer, about his flying permit. He had none and was fined $500.

And I rolled off the bed and onto the floor. When I asked they told me they shot gun for breakfast."

When Gen. King read orders, as chief of staff, Col. Frank J. Schneller, Neenah, former state commander of the American legion, spoke from the ranks:

"General, let me express for the staff the pleasure we have at seeing you read your instructions without glasses." The general stood as erect and soldierly as younger members of the guard. He replied, humbly, "Oh, one of them is a little off."

Local arrangements at Hortonville are being made by the American Legion auxiliary.

Opera Singer Started Her Career With Broadcasting

New York—(AP)—Caroline Andrews was born to the opera, but the modern art of radio has the real claim to her voice.

Since 1923, when she first appeared before a microphone with Roxy and His gang, the beautiful young coloratura soprano has contributed often to the entertainment of the nation's listeners.

Her background was the opera stage. Her mother and father were touring the country as stars of the Andrews Opera company when she was born near Minneapolis, Minn. But they decided that she should not be a professional musician, and the company was disbanded, and the family went to Oregon.

Fate, however, decided otherwise, and when Caroline had reached the age of 12, her aunt, also a singer, persuaded her parents that she should be permitted to study music.

Thus before radio broadcasting was little more than a dream, she started a career that led her to the microphone. Previous to her radio work, she was on the opera and musical comedy stage, including many important roles, and in vaudeville.

After numerous appearances with Roxy, who introduced her to her first radio audience as "the Lark," she joined the staff of the NBC chain, where she is heard in numerous programs of a classical or semi-classical nature.

Next to music, books are her love. She has two volumes of Faust which she prizes highly, and has a library of many outstanding volumes.

She admits that she misses the stage, but she will never leave the radio "because it means more to the people than the stage."

Gaillardias One Of Most Durable Of Garden Plants

Gaillardias which are now decorating the florist's show windows are one of the most durable and valuable of the garden plants that flourish from year to year without requiring any attention. They have been developed to astonishing size when the original types of a decade ago are considered.

They are one of the easiest plants to raise from seed and it is no trick at all to stock the garden with this brilliant plant.

Sow the seed now and as soon as they have made two true leaves move to permanent quarters. They should be transplanted as soon as large enough in order to establish themselves before winter. The one weakness of the gaillardia which has often caused considerable loss is that for some reason it seems to re-sent moving after midsummer. It is altogether amenable to being transplanted in the spring.

The plant is one of the finest of cutting materials, having long stems and lasting a long time in water. It has been a specialty among English growers for many years but recently some fine American strains fully equal to the English named varieties have been developed. The best known of these is the Portola strain, a California development from the original variety known as Portola. This strain has rounded petals. One of the finest of the English strains is Dazzler. This has brilliant yellow blossoms with a bright red center. It is one of the tallest growing and largest flowering of the whole race of gaillardias, making four feet with five inch blossoms.

A pure yellow of unusual beauty is Lady Rolleston which comes fairly true from seeds and is now available in American seed lists.

The gaillardia is particularly valuable for the hardy garden in that it is a heat drought resistant, being originally a native of Texas. Once established it takes care of itself and comes serenely through dry hot spells that are likely to take off other perennials. It requires good drainage. Wet soil in winter is its chief enemy. It will give its best in rich soil but flourishes even in poor soils.

EMANUEL CHURCHES GETTING READY FOR THREE CONVENTIONS

Gatherings at Lomira Assembly Grounds Set from July 29 to Aug. 10

Three conventions at Lomira Assembly grounds will hold the attention of Emanuel Evangelical congregations from July 29 to Aug. 10. The Lomira assemblies will open on July 29 with a Milwaukee district camp meeting. On July 31 the twenty-third annual Woman's Missionary society convention will convene at Lomira, holding sessions until Aug. 4. At the end of the missionary conference the young people will open a six-day session, closing Aug. 10.

Miss I. A. Diekvoos, a Sunday school teacher in the Emanuel Evangelical church in this city, and secretary of the Woman's Missionary society, will be one of the principal speakers at the missionary convention. Other speakers include:

Dr. E. W. Pratorius, general secretary of the board of Christian education, Cleveland, Ohio; the Rev. A. E. Lehman, superintendent of the Kentucky mission, Beverly, Ky.; Mrs. Emma Divan, third vice president and secretary of M. O. C. and Library of the W. M. S., Prairie View, Ill.; Miss Hulda Christner, deaconess and missionary to the Italians, Racine.

Dr. A. J. "Dad" Elliott, associate national secretary of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A., Chicago, will be the leading light of the Young People's convention. The Rev. M. A. Simonsen will be dean of the school of leadership training, held in conjunction with the convention, and the Rev. G. W. Reichert will be the registrar. Instructors will include Mrs. Walter Kline, Milwaukee; Mrs. Willard Muehl, Naperville, Ill.; Miss T. Oelschlaeger, and the Rev. E. A. Finn.

Speakers at the three resper services during the week will include the Rev. Roy Berg of Monona, Ia., the Rev. Carl Zietlow, Independence, and Dr. C. H. Stauffer, Cleveland, Ohio. The Rev. and Mrs. L. C. Viel of Oshkosh will have charge of all music during the convention.

CAFETERIA HEADS AT LAKE GENEVA MEETING

A thorough study of problems of decoration, personal training, purchasing, and the many other phases of cafeteria management were on the program of the Y. M. C. A. college special session last Saturday at Lake Geneva.

W. F. Farnum and Miss Alma Sievert, from the Appleton Y. M. C. A., attended the meeting.

George Werner and family arrived at Lake Geneva Saturday afternoon, where they expect to spend two weeks in attendance at the summer school of the Y. M. C. A.

MAYOR FORMALLY OPENS MINIATURE GOLF COURSE HERE

With Mayor John Goodland putting a first ball, the new 18 hole Tom Thumb golf course at the corner of N. Superior and W. Franklins was formally opened to the public Saturday afternoon. Mayor Goodland and George H. Schmidt, president of the Tom Thumb Club, Inc., played the first round on the new course.

Howard Melzer, 130 W. Winnebago-st., was the first to go around the 18 holes in par figures of 42 strokes and a few rounds later he bettered this feat with an even 40. He was given a season pass for making the first par on the course. Oscar Riches, professional at Riverview Country club, playing in a foursome with J. H. Neller, Roy Marston and Jack Taylor, also negotiated the tricky holes in par figures.

The new course is considered among the most attractive in Wisconsin and is well lighted for night play.

2 LOCAL MEN TO GO TO DEMOCRATIC MEETING

Stephen Ballet and Gustave Keller, Sr., will represent Outagamie-county at a meeting of the ninth congressional district Democrats at Green Bay at the Beaumont hotel at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. Mr. Ballet is president of the Outagamie-county Democratic committee. James Hughes of De Pere, is chairman of the congressional committee with John A. Kuypers of De Pere as secretary. The district will name a candidate or candidates to enter the race for congress this fall.

O. R. LaBuddé, chairman of the state central committee, has been invited to attend the meeting. Democrats from Brown, Door, Kewaunee, Langlade, Marinette, Oconto and Outagamie-counties will attend the meeting. Special invitations are being issued to women to enter the race. A dinner will precede the business meeting.

NINE PROBATE CASES LISTED FOR HEARING

Nine probate cases are listed for hearing at a special term of Outagamie-county court at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning before Judge Fred V. Heinemann at the courthouse. Cases on the calendar are: hearing on petition for administration in the estates of Frank Daminsky, August Schumacher and Sophia Scharf; hearing on petition for guardian in the case of August Reim; hearing on claims in the estates of Arthur W. Bettner, William Alger, Eliza Miller and Laura A. McLeish; hearing on claims on waiver in the estate of Carlos W. Colburn.

Argentina exported 1,650,000 cases of corned beef to the United States last year, the equivalent of 450,000 head of cattle.

POSTAL RECEIPTS JUMPED IN 1930

Slight Increase Over 1929 Fiscal Year Is Reported by Zuehlke

Postal receipts at the Appleton post office during the fiscal year ending June 30 were $174,240.90 or $2,128.72 more than in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, according to a report from William H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster. Receipts in the fiscal year for 1929 were $172,112.18. However, the figure for 1929 was $8,005 below the amount for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928, which means that the business for 1929 was still about $2,500 below the figure for the 1928 fiscal year.

Receipts for the last quarter of the 1930 fiscal year, April, May and June, were $40,660.07, an increase of $1,661.61 over the same period in 1929. The receipts last quarter were made up as follows: sale of stamps, $37,150.51; excess of stamp sale, $13.54; second class postage, $1,184.87; permit matter, $1,878.81; miscellaneous, $12.29; box rents, $419.05.

TWO RUNAWAY BOYS CAUGHT BY POLICE

Two boys from Michigan, 15 and 16 years old, were being returned to their homes Monday by their parents after their "runaway" journey westward ended here Sunday when they were picked up by police. The boys were questioned after being picked up by one of the officers and when police learned where they were from Wheeler, Mich. The pair left home last Friday intending to go west, they said. They were seeking Highway 19 here to continue their jaunt when they were caught. The father of one of the boys arrived in the city Monday morning to take the boys back home.

free wheeling is here!

You don't have to touch the clutch,

except to start or back up!

Free Wheeling—the greatest of Studebaker's many impressive contributions to the industry's progress! Studebaker is the first American car to offer free wheeling.

Like many marvelous engineering advances, free wheeling is simplicity itself. Imagine a car in which you don't have to touch the clutch, except to start or back up! Think of being able to shift from high to second at forty... fifty miles per hour, and never touch the clutch!

Consider the satisfaction of enjoying these motoring marvels in a seasoned champion Eight, with a saving of 12 per cent on gas, 20 per cent on oil—even more in heavy traffic! Consider, too, the economy of less carbon, less strain and wear on engine, transmission and all driving units!

You literally glide along. Your car momentum never forces your engine—there is no sensation of "piling up" when you decelerate.

Your car is surprisingly quiet in every speed... uncannily silent when you're free wheeling.

Almost incredible as these statements may seem to you, a drive in the New Series Studebaker President or Commander Eight will prove them to you. We promise you the thrill of your life.

SENATE DESERVED SLAP
President Hoover has declined to accede to the senate resolution requesting him to submit to it all correspondence and other documents bearing upon the negotiation of the London naval treaty. The resolution contained the rather amusing qualifying clause, "if not incompatible with the public interest." Since the president had previously refused to transmit the documents on the ground that it would be incompatible with the public interest, the senate knew what to expect when it adopted its denatured demand. Mr. Hoover's explanation of his reasons for withholding the information is final and leaves nothing more to be said. The reasons are ample. There is no come-back.

The lack of good faith by senators who originated and pressed the resolution is shown by the fact, as the president points out, that the documents and correspondence in question are available to each and every senator who may wish to see them in confidence. The opposition to the treaty did not desire the information for what it was worth, but to be used in debate to arouse prejudices against foreigners, just as demagogues and slyster lawyers resort to tricks to deceive the people on political issues. The senate in yielding to these politicians and adopting a "harmless" resolution for the sake of consistency has not even saved its face. It has, on the contrary, received from the president a deserved slap in the face.

The whole affair is a rather silly performance. The incident is the result of a tactical move by treaty opponents to defeat the undertaking or postpone consideration of it until next winter. A point was raised of sufficient relation to senatorial vanity to get the ears of that body. Notwithstanding a preliminary poll appears to indicate that the senate is overwhelmingly in favor of the treaty, the issue raised by the opposition could not be dismissed without the senate making a stand for what it considered its "rights." Not that it cares a continental about private exchanges between President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald, or what Daves may have said about foreign delegates to the conference, except old womanish curiosity, but there was a "principle" at stake and a stand of some sort was required. The issue was one over which a great fuss could be made, with insinuations of duplicity on the part of the executive and the state department. It was meat for super-patriots, isolationists and Hoover haters of both parties, and they made the most of it. In fact they made too much of it, and the nation sees their insincerity for what it really is. In addition the three days of oratorical fireworks spent in debating the resolution represent a great waste of time in a very hot month. Now that the senate has made a monkey of itself, why not settle down to business and recover public respect by ratifying the treaty.

SPORTS AND TEMPERANCE
Germany used to be known as a land of rather heavy drinkers. Now, writes an American correspondent from Berlin, Germany is "going dry." She is far from that consumption yet—probably farther than America. But the trend is strong. It is a curious situation. There is no prohibition movement there. There is not even any temperance movement worthy of the name. Yet the consumption of spirituous liquors has fallen off considerably, beer is no longer one of the staple necessities of life, and wine merchants and growers complain of a big slump in their business. There is said to be a general tendency toward the drinking of mineral waters, carbonated drinks with malt flavors or even milder beverages.

The new temperance is said to be due mainly to the popularity of sports. When Germans drank heavily there were few sports, even in universities. Now that there are sports, there is no desire for alcohol. Sports and booze don't mix. Even beer loses popularity with young Germans, because they say it makes them soft and flabby. There may be a practical application of the principle here in America. To make people voluntarily temperate, get them interested in sports—genuine athletic sports in which they really participate instead of merely looking on.

GENTLEMAN AND CHAMPION
There are some still who make pleasantries of golf, who regard it as more of a joke, who look on it as a soft pastime of the idle rich, but they do not know golf. It probably is not an exaggeration to say that in major competition, as a test of nerve, endurance and character it is more exacting than any physical contest ever devised. Was there anything in the Greek and Roman games that demanded comparable skill or ability to withstand maddening strain? We think not. The national open and amateur championships of England and the United States—72 holes of play in two days, with a vast gallery surrounding the star and almost smothering him in breathless and eager expectancy, where any one of something like 300 different strokes of the greatest and most delicate technique may be disastrous—requires concentration and courage to a degree that few can comprehend. It demands almost super-human self-control. There are moments more tense than in the execution of a criminal. Through it all the victor must go practically untouched, steeling himself against an environment and situations that break down the strongest of men, the most seasoned of tournament players.

This Bobby Jones has done twelve times in recent years in the major golf events of Britain and America. By winning the United States open at Interlachen Saturday he has to his credit in the space of a few weeks the British open and amateur and this great event, in competition with the select golfers of the world. Moreover, he bids fair to win again the American amateur in September. His record is unparalleled. No other golfer has even approached it. He typifies the pinnacle of American sportsmanship, so high in ascendancy now. He is truly a national hero, this superman of golf. Not the least of the avalanche of tributes he is receiving was that paid him by the lad who caddied for him at Minneapolis: "Now that it is all over there is one thing I want to emphasize. Besides being the world's greatest golfer, Bobby is a real gentleman to caddy for. And that, if you know the things a caddy runs up against, is saying plenty. He is as fine a man as he is a golfer."

ANOTHER G. O. P. MESS
Politics is a tough game at best. It is doubly tough when a party is beset by internecine strife. The controversy over Claudius Houston, chairman of the Republican national committee, is just too bad, but it is revealing. Mr. Houston is an intimate personal friend of President Hoover. Last spring he became an object of criticism when it was brought out by the Caraway committee that he had long been a Muscle Shoals lobbyist and had admitted the use temporarily of lobby funds in his private stock dealing account. The party embarrassment was immediately visible. It was reported at the time President Hoover would be satisfied to see his friend resign. But Mr. Houston said he would not quit "under fire." He did not, but the fire kept getting hotter all the time until it has become a raging conflagration.

The national committee does not like to fire him. It hopes to have him resign. Mr. Houston is keeping the national capital and the committee in delicate suspense by declining to say just what he will do. Following a conference with the president he seemed to be more bellicose than ever. Later it was rumored he would resign when the present extra session of the senate adjourns. No one knows what will happen, but it is a safe guess that Claudius will quit the arena and make way for a freshly anointed gladiator. He is probably not much different than the politicians who surround and work with him, but he has suffered the mistake of having his "secret life" brought to light. There are not many professional politicians who would fare better if the whole truth were known about them, what with the affairs of prohibition, the stock market, office spoils and other temptations besetting them. Mr. Houston will go, but the G. O. P. will go on as before. It never stops, and seldom changes.

Snakes kill about 20,000 persons annually in India.

LOOKING BACKWARD
TEN YEARS AGO
Monday, July 12, 1920
George T. Prim, chief of police, had been named a member of the auditing committee of the Wisconsin Police Chiefs' Association, according to notice received from the state secretary, Don McKay, Waukesha.
Word had been received in Appleton of the marriage of Harry W. Cameron, manual training teacher at Appleton high school, to Miss Sophia D. Lutze, daughter of Mrs. Anna Lutze, Sheboygan, which took place the previous Friday noon at Sheboygan.
Dr. and Mrs. V. P. Marshall and son motored to Milwaukee where they spent the weekend with Dr. and Mrs. Edward Quirk.
Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ehke and children, Karl, Anita, and Roland, had returned from an extended visit with relatives at Fergus Falls and Duluth, Minn.
Mr. and Mrs. William Stoebauer had gone to Washington, D. C., for two or three weeks' vacation with relatives there.
Gorman Hoeffel had returned from St. Paul, Minn., where he had completed the course at the College of St. Thomas.
Miss Doris Reiche had returned from a week's outing at Lake Koshong, Wis.
F. R. Dittmer and family had returned from a fishing trip to Long Lake.
TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Monday, July 17, 1895
A large crowd attended the picnic of Trades and Labor council at Pierce park the previous afternoon.
Mr. and Mrs. William Van Nortwick, Mrs. John S. Van Nortwick and daughter, Mary, Miss Halie Ramsey, Miss Nellie Buckland, Appleton, and Mr. and Mrs. George Howard, Neenah, spent the previous Saturday and Sunday at Oconomowoc. The trip was made in automobiles.
Fred Felix Wenzel, Joseph Koffend, Jr., and George Wenzel were to leave the next day for Milwaukee where they were to attend the annual meeting of the Northwestern Mutual Insurance company and the Wisconsin Insurance Agents' association.
S. D. Pearson left this morning for Neenah where he was to spend the day before going to Milwaukee.
The Misses Gertrude and Clara Schuetter, Gretchen and Ella Krieger, May and Josephine Driscoll, and Anna Lee Brown had returned from a week's visit at Okauchee, Waupaca.
Mrs. John A. Strickland and returned from a week's visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Laux, south of Harrison.
Mrs. Emma Patten had returned from a visit with friends in Chicago.

Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

MASTOIDITIS AND RUNNING EAR
Practically every case of "gathering in the ear," inflammation, suppuration, acute ear ache, running ear, otitis media, middle ear infection, as it is variously known, is the result of an invasion of the cavity or space in the skull bone inside of the ear drum by germs that travel thru the eustachian tube or ventilator shaft from the junction of nose and throat passages. So the doctor always looks in the nose and throat for the cause of such ear trouble. To the abnormal condition he finds there the most effective treatment is directed.
This middle ear space or cavity houses the famous hammer, anvil and stirrup, the tiny bones of the hearing apparatus, and has no greater capacity than a large cavity in a molar tooth. The space is lined with the same mucous membrane as that which lines the eustachian tube and the nose-throat cavity. It is in this lining membrane that infection or inflammation extends from the nose or throat along the eustachian canal (perhaps 15 inches long) into the middle ear. We doctors call this cavity "middle" ear to distinguish it from the ear canal outside of the ear drum and from the nerve terminal or receiver apparatus of the ear that lies more deeply embedded in the skull bone close to the brain.
The middle ear space communicates with other air spaces in the interior of the slightly bulging bone just back of the ear, and that bone is the mastoid process of the temporal bone. The air spaces in the mastoid are called cells; they are not present in the bone at birth, but develop in infancy and attain their size at the age of puberty. These mastoid cells are usually involved more or less in any inflammation or suppuration (pus formation) of the middle ear, tho we do not diagnose "mastoiditis" unless the complication becomes the main part of the illness.
In any discharge from the ear which is very profuse—more than a small pea sized space might reasonably produce—it is a fair surmise that the pus is coming from the mastoid cells.
The roof of some of these mastoid cells is a paper thin plate of bone and in certain cases of severe mastoiditis the inflammation and suppuration erodes or softens this partition and breaks thru into the brain or its membranes.
Here are some suggestions which may be of use.
1. In my judgment the best treatment for any acute ear ache is a hot mustard foot bath administered to the patient in bed.
2. Never plug the ear with cotton where there is ear discharge. It is much better to permit the air to ventilate the ear.
3. Very profuse running from the ear means mastoiditis.
4. Surgical intervention is necessary and advisable in only a small portion of cases of mastoiditis.
5. Malodorous ear discharge usually means bone necrosis and calls for careful medical attention.
6. In the absence of personal medical care, these drops may be used for running ear:
Boric acid 10 grains
Alcohol 1 ounce
Warm the solution by standing the vial in hot water for a few minutes before using. One or two drops in the ear night and morning for a period of several months.
7. Many persons with chronic running ear obtain much benefit from a suitable red liver oil ration.
8. Exposure of the naked skin to sunlight or to the ultra violet radiation of a suitable lamp helps to prevent and cure ear infections.

Eat and Sleep, MiLady
I am a girl of 17 and in the best of health. I work from 2:30 to 11 p. m. as telegraph operator. Is there any harm in eating a hot meal when I get home at night, and then going to bed shortly afterward? Sometimes after I eat I have cramps in my stomach for a short time. Is that from late eating? (R. A.)
Answer—Sure, you ought to have one good warm (not hot) meal when you get thru work, and it is perfectly physiological and healthy to hit the cornucopias as soon after dinner as you like. Perhaps the cramps are due to hasty eating. Take your time, chew your bread and taters and such things well, let ma do most of the talking while you eat, and avoid washing down mouthfuls with water, milk or other beverage. Eat when you eat and drink when you drink. It ought not be permitted for a girl to work after 10 o'clock at night.

Thank You, Ma'am
I am an old lady 75 and read your daily column always. I was delighted by your answer about shingles. I had that, and could never learn what caused it, and your answer explains it fully. When first taken I consulted a doctor, who gave me some medicine and dismissed me. Three days later I was removed to the hospital, where I suffered severely. I had been frightened ever since, until your advice did me so much good and reassured me.
It is a godsend to us poor people to know there is a doctor in whom we can confide and trust. (Mrs. C. B. J.)
ANSWER—And it makes me very happy to know that poor people, as well as those not so poor, do confide in me, and that I do sometimes give them some comfort of mind if not of body. Perhaps the element of anxiety about the outcome is a greater factor in an attack of herpes zoster ("shingles") than we doctors think. I can only assure people that, while shingles is in some cases an atrociously painful affliction, a complete recovery is the invariable rule where the pain is properly dealt with, by your physician, of course. There is no rhyme or reason in the superstition about the shingles meeting or extending completely around the trunk.

The Tynmites
By Hal Cochran
WHEN they had finished with their bread and started off, wee Scouty said, "Let's take some bread along with us and eat it after while. When we are hungry 'twill taste good." The Travel Man then said he could, and Scouty, loaded down with bread, made everybody smile.
When he had gone a block or two, a breeze came up. Next thing he knew the bread was blown to pieces and it scattered over the ground. Then Scouty, through a silly grin, said, "Aw, that bread is much too thin. When we want more, we'll buy it fresh. I'm sure it can be found."
All of a sudden someone said, "Where's Clowny? Look! He's far ahead. I wonder what he's up to now. We'd better run and see." And then, when up to him they ran, they found him with an old fruit man. The fruit he had made all of them as hungry as could be.
"I want a bunch of grapes," cried one. "Come on, we'll have a heap of fun just sitting here and eating them. I'll bet they're mighty good. They promptly bought a great big bunch. "That surely was a real good bunch," the Travel Man exclaimed, "but don't eat more grapes than you should."
They all enjoyed the fresh fruit treat and ate, while walking down the street. Soon Carpy said, "What is that woman doing, over there?"

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Consult Physician
I have found worms in my bed, and cannot sleep nights worrying about it. What causes them, and what can I do about it? (S. O. F.)
Answer—Presumably round worms. Nothing to worry about. Let your physician give you a course of treatment to eliminate them. Beware of trifling with alleged "worms."
LOAFERS
Apparently those fortunate enough still to have jobs are unworried by the unemployment situation. The other morning we had to go down to Wall street (for information, not money). A stationary mass of fairly prosperous-looking persons completely blocked the subway entrance opposite a hotel. Charles Kingford-Smith had just gone into the hotel.
Forty-five minutes later we emerged from our appointment. The same crowd still was there. We knew because we bumped the same backs and stepped on the same toes getting through it. It was waiting patiently to see the ocean spanner come out again.
I made our elbow jabs a little vicious, because we had to get back to work.
The Tynmites turned around and saw a woman on the ground. "She's spinning yarn. Let's watch her," shouted Scouty. "She won't care."
The spinning spindle, made of wood, spun 'round as quickly as it could. The woman's feet were holding it, just so it wouldn't slide. The yarn rolled 'round it very neat. To watch her work was quite a treat. The woman merely smiled, as they all gathered by her side.

Seen And Heard In New York

New York—Gilda Gray is grateful for theater refrigeration. The skirt in which she dances weighs 37 pounds.
To warm! Even a Broadway nickel-in-the-slot caterer has installed a cooling system.
As for hand temperatures, the orchestra made up of Grand Central terminal redcaps is the hottest thing in town. And the most exclusive. You have to wear the right uniform to get into the rehearsal hall.
One now says in parting from his friends, "I'll see you later."

ENCYCLOPEDIA BITS
"Mime. Schumann-Heink" is called "Mamma Ernestine" by those she likes.
After the annual Harvard-Yale regatta, J. P. Morgan always entertains the Harvard rowers on his yacht and Harry Payne Whitney the Yale crew on his.
The movie usher uniforms worn by the page boys in the National Broadcasting studios have always impressed us. Now we learn that a half-dozen of the boys have possibly the softest job in the world.
All they have to do is stand at the elevator signal buttons on each floor and push the buttons for those who wish to go up or down. The one on the top floor is the envy of all of the rest. He has only one button to push.
The first of a chain of cigar store luncheonets has appeared on Broadway. Lettuce and tomato sandwiches at one counter, cigars and razor blades at another.
Add city sights: The ground-floor photographic studio on Forty-eighth street with a double windowful of Broadway celebrities' pictures. Also the sidewalk knife sharpener whose heat is that street and who sings operatic airs while he grinds away.
E. E. Cummings, who always writes it that way, is author of a book coming out in the fall which has no title, or rather, the title of which is seven horizontal lines. Composers of best-seller lists need not anticipate trouble, however, as less than 500 copies are to be printed.
A Greenwich Village, Cummings, also paints pictures of the cards that laundries put in his shirts.
And further reporting on literature: the island of Bali, near Java, has been added to most of the world tours since its charms were depicted in a recent book.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—In a hotel lobby at Lethbridge, Alberta, last summer three men stood engaged in conversation.
One was Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer. Another was General High L. Scott, one-time chief of staff of the U. S. army, now retired. The third was Scott Leavitt, member of congress from Montana and chairman of the house committee on Indian affairs.
Stefansson, an authority on the language of the Eskimos, had been telling the other two something of his experiences. Suddenly he turned to General Scott:
"General," he said, "when are you going to record permanently your knowledge of the sign language of the American Indians?"
"I don't know, Doctor," the 75-year-old Indian fighter replied. "I am a busy man these days."
Stefansson looked serious. Then turning to both of them, said:
"Well, should it fail to be done, the world of scholarship will increasingly deplore your blindness in letting go by the one remaining opportunity to record the sign language."

RESULTS
Within a few weeks Leavitt returned to Washington to attend a special session of congress. Stefansson's words still rang in his ears, and as chairman of the Indian affairs committee, he decided to act.
He introduced a bill in the house, asking for $5,000 to be used in making a permanent record of the Indian language with motion and talking pictures. General Scott was to direct and have a free hand in the work.
The other day the bill was passed. The work will be started this summer.

Hailed as the leading living authority of the sign language of the American Indians, General Scott has spent more than 50 years of his life studying the lives and habits. He began his study in Montana when he was just out of West Point. It was in 1876, the year of Custer's last stand, and it has continued up to today.

INDIAN'S FRIEND
Erect, with snowy white hair and mustache, and kindly, clear-blue eyes, General Scott is regarded by the Indians as the trusted champion of their cause at the court of the "Great White Father" in Washington.
Time and again he has been sent into the Indian country on difficult and delicate diplomatic missions. The Crows, the Sioux, the Blackfeet—with all tribes he is a favorite, counselor and trusted friend.

General Scott regards his choice for this task as one of the outstanding triumphs of his long and colorful career. He has told Chairman Leavitt that he will start the work this summer and stick with it until it is completed.

Had you been standing in our entrance an hour later, you would have seen Bert — carrying home his own suit box.

And Bert is going to tell others.

STEEL TONNAGE IS FAVORABLE DURING JUNE, IT APPEARS

Decrease in Unfilled Tonnage Small, Reports Indicate

Special Dispatch to Post-Crescent
Pittsburg—(CPA)—If precedent is a guide, the United States Steel Corporation's unfilled tonnage statement for June was favorable, since there was a small decrease. 91,163 tons, whereas large June decreases have been common.

In the three years 1923-4-5, the smallest June decrease was 339,342 tons, while June, 1926, showed 170,608 tons decrease. None of the next three years was at all typical or "normal." One showed a very small increase, another a large increase and another a small decrease.

In a case like this it is a common remark that the unfilled tonnage statement was helped by light shipments. Such an observation is hardly appropriate in this instance, as June shipments usually are light. This year June shipments were no more under the average of the preceding five months than is usual. June shipments to a considerable extent represent industrial activity or consumption in July and various industries run light in July, including the automobile and farm implement industries.

Sometimes the last month of the quarter has heavy bookings on account of quarterly contracting, but regularly contracting is lighter for the third quarter than for other quarters, and this year there was practically none.

June bookings were almost entirely for prompt shipment. It must be remembered that there have been heavy rail shipments while rail buying has been out of season. Annual rail orders are now completed with very few exceptions.

Average production of steel during the first half of this year, as officially reported, was 76.67 per cent of capacity, with June at 68.73 per cent. Both the rate this week and the average rate of July may be assumed at around 60 per cent. That occurs when production of rails against annual orders is virtually completed, when the agricultural implement industry has passed into its one dull period of the year, and quite a dull one; when automobile productions, always light in July, is extremely light and when there is little freight car building, the railroads having already bought more cars than they needed, partly because it appeared they were being offered bargains. A 60 per cent operation of the steel industry in these circumstances, and when capacity is so large, shows that there is much steel consumption in some directions.

AUTOMOBILE MAKERS HOLD SOLID FRONT

Eliminate Excess Overhead, Reform Used-car Trade, Scrap Lines

Special Dispatch to Post-Crescent
Detroit—(CPA)—Despite curtailed earnings due to the general business slump, the automobile manufacturers have been able to preserve a solid financial front following completion of half a year in which operations have been subjected to a deflation process.

This applies to all but a bare handful of plants whose small production and limited distribution have placed them under severe handicap in a period like the present. In only one instance has a receivership been threatened, and in this case such action has been resisted, with operations continued.

The readjustment has brought with it elimination of excess overhead reform of the used-car trade, reduction of surplus executive personnel and scrapping of entire lines of cars that have proved unworthy from the standpoint of sales volume. It has also been marked by improvement in dealer relations which is likely to rehabilitate the retail end, long in need of rebuilding.

Climaxing these steps, which virtually every producer has had to take in one form or another, has come a vacation period and a pause for a new start. This will give distribution outlets a chance further to reduce floor stocks of cars, already depleted below normal levels by factory regulation.

Together with other plans scheduled to take two weeks "rest" during this month, the Ford company entered a fortnight period Saturday. All shops and offices will close for machinery repairs and for the first complete inventory of equipment and supplies the company has made in more than 10 years. The layoff will involve more than 100,000 employees in the River Rouge and other Ford plants here. During this time the company will make the final hook-up of a mammoth water intake tunnel designed to increase factory power facilities.

Starting July 1, China will increase by 50 per cent its postal charges on mail matter sent to foreign countries.

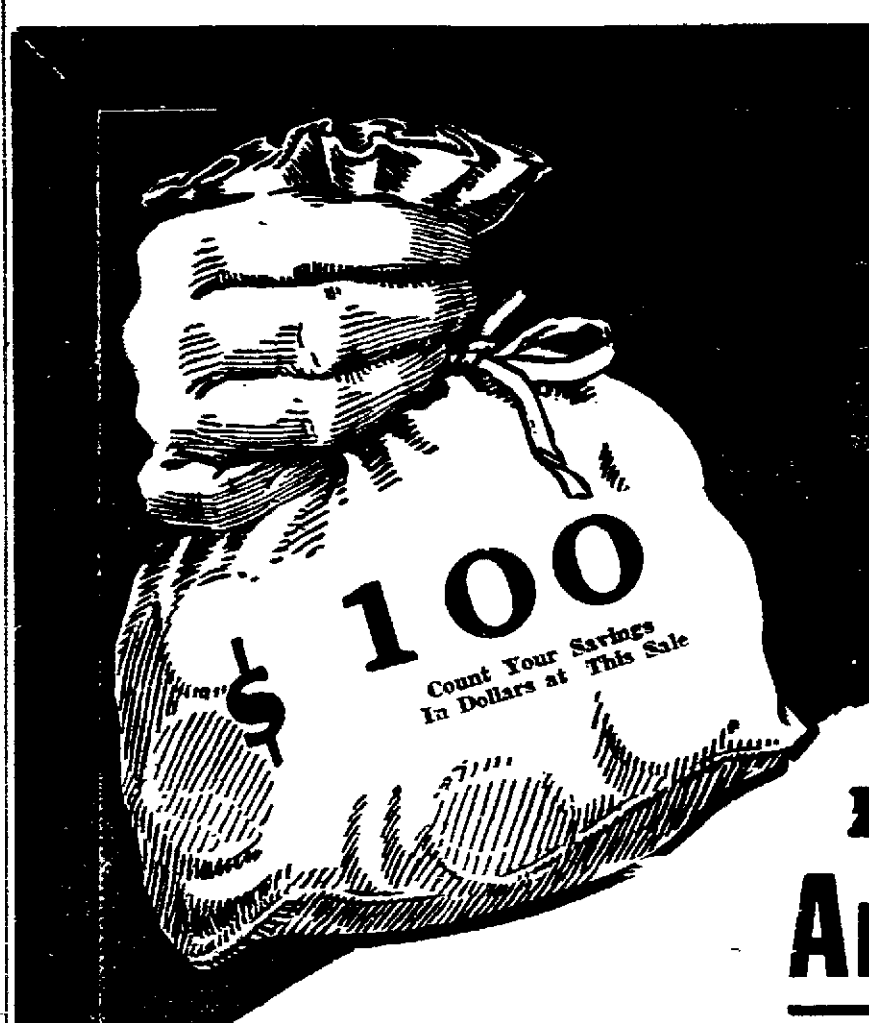

ITALIAN PEOPLE ARE PRAISED BY KOHLER

Milwaukee—(AP)—Praise for persons of Italian descent was given by Gov. Walter J. Kohler in an address here Sunday night to members of St. Joseph's society. He flew here from Camp McCoy and Camp Williams where he visited the Wisconsin National Guard.

"We have in the United States and in Wisconsin a great many people of Italian birth or descent," the governor said. "They are a valuable group in this country, playing an important part in business and finance, in religious life, the development of music, art, and in intellectual pursuits."

Governor Kohler explained the history of Italy with that of the United States goes back to the October day when Christopher Columbus discovered America.

Society And Club Activities

Outings End Season For Many Clubs

WITH the advent of the warm weather, many lodges, clubs, church societies, and other organizations have discontinued meetings for the summer, and of those which still continue to meet, picnics and outings have, in many cases, been substituted for the business sessions. The past week end saw several such outdoor events. The Brotherhood of First English Lutheran church held an outing Sunday at Bear Lake for all members of the church and their friends. A program of games and other entertainment took place during the afternoon, and refreshments were served. A picnic lunch was served at noon to about 50 people. The committee in charge included E. McGregor, E. Ballard, and A. Gauerke.

Knights of Columbus of central Wisconsin and their families were entertained at a picnic Sunday at Silver Lake. Wild Rose, which was sponsored by the Beaver Dam council. The program included such entertainment as swimming, boating, baseball games, horse shoe tournaments, races, and contests. Special entertainment was provided for the children. Several Appleton members were present.

MISSION GROUP ENJOYS PICNIC

The annual picnic luncheon of the Women's Missionary society of Memorial Presbyterian church will be held at 1 o'clock Tuesday at the cottage of Mrs. James Wood at Lake Winnebago. Those who will assist Mrs. Wood are Mrs. W. H. Kellen, Mrs. William A. Fannon, Mrs. S. W. Murphy, and Mrs. W. S. Mason. Mrs. R. A. Garrison will be the devotional leader and Mrs. Frank W. Schneider will have charge of the meeting.

Each member will bring their own sandwiches and one covered dish, and also her own dishes. The idea of a "play day" will be carried out, games, swimming and a story providing entertainment.

WEDDINGS

Miss Regina Wymelberg, Milwaukee, daughter of John Wymelberg, Wrightstown, and John Thurner, Milwaukee, were married at 9 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Paul church, combined locks. The Rev. J. DeWitt, cousin of the bride, performed the ceremony, and he was assisted by Cyril Van Vreede and Gerald Wymelberg, Green Bay, nephews of the bride. The wedding march was played by Norbert Van Vreede, cornet, Cyril Van Vreede, violin, and Cletus Van Vreede, organ. The Mass of the Guardian Angels was played by Norbert Van Vreede, and it was sung by St. Paul choir and nephews and nieces of the bride.

Miss Anna Wymelberg acted as bridesmaid and Mary Elonor Van Vreede was flower girl. Ralph Thurner, Milwaukee, was best man. Breakfast was served to the wedding party at the home of the Rev. DeWitt and a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's father to about 40 guests. After a two weeks' trip to Yellowstone National park, Mr. and Mrs. Thurner will reside at Milwaukee. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Clem Wymelberg, and daughter, Suzann, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Laur and family, Miss Marge Gibbons, Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Van and family, Mr. and Mrs. Al Van and children, Green Bay.

The marriage of Miss Marie Geiger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Geiger, 1013 S. Madison-st., to Merrill A. Latham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Latham, 498 E. Atlantic-st., took place at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the parsonage of Sacred Heart church. The Rev. F. L. Ruessmann performed the ceremony. Estelle Vanden Heuvel was bridesmaid and Peter Williams acted as best man. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to about 30 relatives at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Latham left on a two weeks' trip to Chicago and on their return will make their home on Madison-st. Mr. and Mrs. John Geiger, Jr., and son, Dickie, Menasha, were out of town guests at the wedding.

CLUB MEETINGS

Three applications for membership were read at the meeting of Women's Relief Corps, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, Friday afternoon at Elk hall. A picnic lunch and social hour followed the business session. Twenty-three members and three visitors were present. The visitors were Mrs. Thad Sherrin, Neenah, Mrs. Sarah Gear and Mrs. Charles Gear, Menasha.

Mrs. Amanda Pfeil, president of the corps, has left on a two weeks' trip to Niagara Falls, Washington, D. C., and other points.

LODGE NEWS

F. J. Foreman and E. W. Bates, delegates to the national convention held recently at Mooseheart, Ill., will report on the sessions at the meeting of Loyal Order of Moose at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at Moose temple. After the meeting there will be cards for members only. The prizes have been donated by one of the members.

Economic lodge, Order of Odd Fellows, will meet at 8 o'clock Monday night at Odd Fellow hall. Routine business will be transacted. The new officers will entertain the lodge at a social hour after the meeting.

Two painters, convicts in the Missouri state prison, have redecorated the governor's offices at Jefferson City.

Clever Bow Trim

Of summery appeal and unbelievably easy to copy.

Marine blue dots on a white ground in dimity makes this adorable little frock.

The puff sleeves are banded with plain blue dimity.

The full-gathered skirt attached to bodice repeats the plain blue trim in border effect. A bow of the dimity is tacked at center-front with corresponding shoulder bow.

It's quaintness makes it so thoroughly smart.

WOMANS CLUB GROUP MEETS AT CLUBHOUSE

The committee in charge of the redecoration of the Appleton Women's club met at the club Saturday morning. The clubhouse was inspected by a contractor, who will submit an estimate to the committee within a short time. Members of the committee are Mrs. T. E. Orblison, Mrs. J. Ingold, and Miss Harriet Thompson.

PARTIES

The Neenah Bridgette club entertained at a 6:30 dinner and bridge Saturday at Memorial tea room, in honor of Miss Alice Miles and Miss Gertrude Woelcker. Prizes at bridge were won by Mrs. Edgar Erdman, Pestigo, and Miss Clara Patzel, Menasha. Miss Miles and Miss Woelcker were awarded guest prizes. Covers were laid for 12 guests.

Appleton Business and Professional Women's club will be entertained at a garden party Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Emolina Gneiner, Hancock-st. A 6 o'clock dinner will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lauer entertained 50 guests Sunday evening at their home, 708 W. Lorain-st., in honor of the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Peterson, 724 W. Lorain-st., and the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Lauer. Cards and dancing provided the entertainment during the evening and a midnight supper was served.

Miss Mildred Blinder, 621 N. Lawrence-st., entertained at a party Sunday at her home in honor of her thirteenth birthday anniversary. Thirteen guests were present. Games were played and prizes were won by Miss Adeline Kluge and Miss Geraldine Schmidt. Out of town guests were Miss Cora Webster, Chicago; Miss Dorothy Sinai, Neenah, and Miss Rachel Golden, Kaukauna.

PICNICS

The annual picnic of Women of Mooseheart Legion for members and their families will take place at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at Pierce park. Bridge and schafkop will be played and supper will be served at 5 o'clock. Each member will bring her own sandwiches and one covered dish. Mrs. Reinhardt Wenzel is chairman of the committee in charge.

LODGE GROUP PLANS PICNIC ON LAKE SHORE

Pythian Sisters of Appleton will be entertained at a picnic Thursday at the cottage of Mrs. George Schmidt at Waverly Beach. Members will leave Appleton at 10 o'clock in the morning. All those who plan to attend are to call Mrs. Charles Young at 1334 before Wednesday night. A picnic dinner will be served and swimming and cards will provide entertainment during the day.

The committee in charge includes Mrs. Eleanor Gneiner, Mrs. Hilda Kuntz, Mrs. Lillian Trentlage, and Mrs. Anna Young.

VALLEY MOOSE ATTEND FROLIC AT MARINETTE

A Fox river valley Moose Legion frolic was held Sunday at Marinette with a large crowd in attendance. The business meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock in the morning at Eagle hall and the initiation of candidates took place at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Entertainment of candidates took place at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and the frolic came to a close with a banquet at 6 o'clock at the Green Mill. Members from Appleton, Neenah, and Menasha were present.

COUNCIL SEATS NEW OFFICIAL

John Melke, Appleton, was installed as recording secretary of District Council of Carpenters at the annual installation of officers and social gathering Saturday afternoon at Trades and Labor hall. All other officers were from out of town. Cards were played during the afternoon and about 50 people were present among them visitors from Fond du Lac, Oakshob, Green Bay, Kaukauna, Little Chute, Neenah and Menasha. The next meeting will be in two weeks.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Mrs. F. P. Martin's circle of the Ladies Aid society of Memorial Presbyterian church will meet July 21 at the cottage of Mrs. W. H. Kellen at Lake Winnebago. Mrs. G. D. Thomas will be assistant hostess.

A meeting of the executive board of the Associated Young Women's Missionary societies of the Fox river valley district, of the Wisconsin conference, synod of the Northwest, will be held at 7:30 Monday night at the home of Miss Minna Drjeske, 617 Third-st., Menasha. Plans for the fall rally will be discussed.

The Young Women's Missionary society of St. Paul English Lutheran church, Neenah, will meet at 7:30 Tuesday night at the summer home of Mrs. P. Kosch at Raine's Point. Miss Anna Lornson will be assistant hostess.

About 275 members of Holy Name society of St. Joseph church received Holy Communion in a body at the 8 o'clock mass Sunday at the church. A breakfast was served after mass at the parish hall. The Rev. Father Leonard gave a talk on his recent trip to Europe.

Eugene Pachet won the prize at the meeting. Plans for the picnic to be held July 27 at Pierce park were discussed and committees will be appointed soon. There will be a special officers' meeting at 8 o'clock Friday night at the monastery when further plans for the event will be discussed.

"Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother" was the topic for discussion at the devotional meeting of Baptist Young People's Union Sunday evening at the church. Miss Gwendolyn Vandawarka was the leader. Fifteen members were present.

CHINESE PRESS HAILS RESULT OF CONFERENCE

Peiping, China.—(AP)—The Chinese press tonight hailed optimistically the conference of Kuomintang minority leaders held here yesterday, which issued manifestoes denouncing General Chiang Kai Shek as a despot, as the first step toward establishment of a new national government at Peiping.

In recent months various Kuomintang factions opposed to the Nanking regime conferred fruitlessly in North China with the object of composing their differences and establishing a legal basis for the formation of a new administration.

That complete unity now has been achieved is claimed and machinery for the organization of a separatist government stands ready for use when the military situation justifies action.

STAIHL RETURNS TO WORK AFTER ILLNESS

District Attorney Stanley A. Staihl resumed his duties at his office Monday morning after being absent for slightly more than two weeks as the result of an operation for appendicitis. The district attorney was stricken suddenly and was forced to submit to an emergency operation. He remained at St. Elizabeth hospital for about 10 days and spent the balance of his time at his home. During his absence the office was cared for by Oscar J. Schmlegle, assistant district attorney.

BULLY BATTLE

Baltimore—Jack Wildstein recently played the part of an unwilling treader on a narrow road near Prince Frederick, Md. Driving along in his car he came upon a bull pulling a tobacco cart. He pulled to one side to let the bull pass, but the bull didn't want to pass. He wanted to fight. He charged the car, and hurled it more than 15 feet. Wildstein stepped on the gas and fled in the other direction.

My Neighbor Says...

No single food for infants, except milk, contains the right amount of material for heat, energy, building and repair, so it is necessary to include all the food substances in the diet each and every day.

Sleeves never should be washed with soap, but cleaned with a brush, using a little soda if necessary.

For mixing flour and water use a fork or egg-beater to make it smooth and free from lumps.

To use up candle ends just put the short pieces on top of another light in the candlestick. But before you put it in place make a small hole in the shorter piece up alongside the wick, large enough to admit the wick of the under one. Put it on so as to keep the lower wick upright, then apply a lighted match around the joining a few times to cement the two together. As the shorter piece burns away the under wick will catch when the flame reaches it. If you do not make the opening for the lower wick the candle must be lighted a second time.

ROME PLANS TO TUNNEL UNDER JANICULUM HILL

Rome.—(AP)—Engineers are making surveys for probably the most important development in Rome of the past decade—a tunnel under the famous Janiculum Hill.

It will connect with a new bridge across the Tiber and link the popular Aurelia zone with the older sections of the city.

The Aurelia zone is a twentieth century product. It contains thousands of homes of workmen but is isolated from the rest of the city by a network of arrow-winding streets with much traffic congestion.

Prince Boncompagni-Ludovisi, governor of Rome, believes that the tunnel will eliminate this congestion. The project has already been mentioned in the city budget.

The bore will be 300 feet long and 58 feet wide. It will have space for several automobile lanes and, possibly, street car lines.

Streets leading to the new bridge on either side of the Tiber will be widened by tearing down buildings and thus give access to the broad Corso Victor Emmanuel leading to the Piazza Venezia and the heart of the city.

Probably five years would be needed for the work. Its cost has not been accurately estimated but it will run into many millions of lire.

WOULD ADD TO BEEF DIET OF PORTO RICO

San Pedro De Macoris, Dominican Republic.—(AP)—Governor Theodore Roosevelt of Porto Rico, finding 80 per cent of the people on that island under-nourished, wants them to eat more beef.

He sent a representative to study the Dominican republic as a possible source of supply and as a result a new packing plant is to be erected either here or in Santo Domingo.

Porto Rico has 1,543,000 inhabitants or 450 to the square mile. She must practice such intensive agriculture that the raising of livestock is restricted. This republic, with scarcely 50 people to the square mile, has plenty of land for grazing.

There are only 150,000 cattle in Porto Rico and two-thirds of the animals are beasts of burden. There are not nearly enough milch cows for the island's needs and goat's milk is an important item for the poorer families.

Tuberculosis, rickets and other ailments of mal-nutrition can be reduced, Gov. Roosevelt believes, by increasing the meat diet of the people.

SILENCE STREET BAND WITH PEANUT FARMS

Darwin, Australia.—(AP)—Music hath charms, but not for Darwin. Several hundred unemployed men who organized a band of ukuleles, accordions, combs, mouth organs, and tin whistles, disturbed the citizens so much that the local administrator in desperation gave all of them work.

The men have been granted blocks of land on Katherine River, where they will raise peanuts to go with their tin whistles. The government will provide subsistence until the first crop is harvested.

SLOW MOTION MOVIE AIDS PIANO LESSON

Paris.—(AP)—Pianists, it is claimed, can acquire a good technique in a minimum of time by the use of the slow motion picture.

Mme. Louta Nounberg, a Parisian pianist, has evolved a system for the application of these pictures to teaching. She has obtained the support of a number of eminent artists, including Iturbi, Cortot and Backhaus, who consented to play for her films.

By having them make motion-pictures of the same composition she was able to analyze the effects obtained by the varying movements of the player's hands.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SUE'S voice was dancing along gleefully, as though her worries had been smoothed out.

"Jean Brady feels that he ought to perform the self redemption act or something of that sort, Ted says. And you big-hearted brother would like to have him stay at your house . . . you can imagine how thrilled he is over his new job . . . but he thought you might object. I've been appointed as a peace-maker."

"It's all right. Anything's all right," Sue answered.

But when she had finished talking to Sarah she didn't start to type for a few minutes. She looked at the typewriter keys and it seemed to her that the black and white faces grinned back impishly. She was tired of having people bring her their troubles. She had a few of her own.

She had an errand to do for her mother at a furniture store at noon. Standing in the shadows, waiting for her purchase, she noticed two figures coming nearer. There was something familiar about them. She watched carefully, as they came wondering slowly down the long aisle which was bordered by chairs and tables and lamps. Then she withdrew into the shadows again. Jack and Barbara were evidently about the business of furnishing their apartment.

Sue didn't know that her eyes looked frightened, as a mirror across the aisle caught their deep blue shinningness, or that her head suddenly took a prouder angle.

This was reality, she was thinking. Chairs and tables and couches and picture things made of wood and tapestry were more final than any words which Jack might have said. Furniture was substantial, something like a foundation for marriage.

She saw that she couldn't get away without being observed and was preparing to step out, pass the approaching couple with a quick little nod, and wait for the salesman at the other end of the store when Barbara's voice made her seek refuge back of a large vanity dresser which faced the aisle.

"I suppose Sue Merryman gave you all your ideas of economy, didn't she? How do you expect to furnish a house on nothing? If we aren't going to have furniture which I'll be proud to show to my friends, I think we had better live in a hotel. Honestly, Jack, it would be cheaper!" The golden voice, which had started on a metallic again.

"No, thanks," Jack answered, and his drawing voice was laughing a little. "I've lived in a hotel all my life, you might say. I want a change."

"I suppose you'll expect to find me sitting behind the percolator in the morning, and maybe want a home-made cherry pie, won't you?" Barbara's voice was hardening now.

"I won't demand it, but it would be great."

"Well it's one of the home-baked pleasures you won't have, the girl continued. "Any cooking will be done by the cook. We had better get a second maid with culinary ambitions, too, if you're going to be strong for the made-in-the-house variety of food."

"Then I'll have to wait a few years for the pie and hickory nut cake of my dreams," Jack answered, still lightly, but Sue, listening and wanting to get away so she wouldn't have to listen, caught the worried note under the bantering tone. "It will be yes or two, Miss Barbara Andrews, before we have the prestige of a second maid. One white capped personage and an electric sweeper will be our limit now."

"You dare to ask me to marry you knowing that!" There was fury in his fiancée's voice.

NEXT: Sue is discovered.

GRAFF WILL ATTEND CAMP DOUGLAS MEET

Marshall C. Graff, state commander of the American Legion, will attend an organization meeting of the state council of national defense at Camp Douglas Tuesday. The council which is temporarily presided over by Wheeler P. Bloodgood, civilian aide to the president, includes representatives of the national guard, reserve officers association, G. A. R., Spanish war veterans, and American Legion.

The purpose of the proposed organization will be to unit veteran organizations into a unit to foster plans for national defense, Mr. Graff stated.

LIONS CLUB TO MEET AT BOY SCOUT CAMP

Appleton Lions club and their families will be entertained tonight at the Boy Scout camp, Chigagami, on Lake Winnebago. The Lions were invited to come out during the afternoon and use the recreational facilities of the camp. At 6:30 they will be served a dinner. After dinner a program of entertainment will be offered by the scouts and the members of the club.

Engagement of Lady Katharine Hamilton, lady-in-waiting to Queen Mary of England, to Lieut. Col. Reginald Seymour, querry to the king, was recently announced.

INFORMATION ON TREE PLANTING IN BULLETIN

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Information obtained from 400 different plantations, most of them from five to 20 years old, has served as subject matter for a bulletin entitled "Forest Planting in the Lake States," ready for distribution, according to E. W. Tinker, regional forester for the U. S. Forest Service.

Joseph Kittredge, Jr., Silviculturist, Lake State Experimental station, the author, estimated that there is in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan a total area of about 20,000,000 acres of land better suited to growing of forests than to any other purpose, that will require replanting, and declared that no region can afford to have so large an area of land idle for centuries.

With the increasingly effective fire protection work of the states, the few scattered seedlings that have escaped destruction would naturally restock to some extent, although chiefly with inferior kinds and of low value.

In order to carry forward the planting program, especially on newly purchased forest lands, this office is at the present time engaged in the purchase of trucks and tractors, some of which will serve the dual purpose of planting and fire protection, Tinker said.

GIRL 4-H CLUB WINNERS TO TALK FROM LONDON

Chicago.—(AP)—Nancy Grosholl and Amy Jeanette Irwin, the Petersburg, Ill., girls who won a trip to Europe by winning the 4-H farm club prize for clothes making, will give impressions of their trip over an international radio hook-up July 21.

The event will be a feature of the NBC farm home hour. The girls will be heard between 12 noon and 12:30 p. m., Central Standard time, the 4-H headquarters here announced.

WE WOMEN by Betty Brainerd

JAIL PREFERRED TO MOTHER-IN-LAW

The natural destiny of all women is to become a mother-in-law at some time in life.

As such, we will be interested in and perhaps learn a lesson from the strange case of a man who gladly accepted 30 days in jail rather than make peace with his mother-in-law!

The man even went so far as to say that a 30 day sentence would be the first vacation he had ever had from five years of terror.

The facts, as reported in the newspapers, are as follows:

The defendant was charged with blackening the eyes of his mother-in-law. He pleaded guilty. He told the court that five years ago his mother-in-law came to live with him, his wife and three children. Previous to that time he had lived happily with his wife for four years. But from that day on, he said, his life became miserable.

"You'd think it was her wife and her children I was taking care of instead of mine," he told the court. "You'd think she was the husband and head of the family and that I was a rank outsider. I have given in to her in every way imaginable on my wife's account—but a fellow can stand just so much and I'm worn out."

Finally the pressure grew too much for him and he blew up. He said he lost his mind temporarily and in his rage struck his mother-in-law.

The judge suggested that if the husband would make up with his mother-in-law everything would be all right, otherwise he would have to go to jail for thirty days. The husband firmly refused to make peace. He said a jail sentence would be a blessed relief. He went to jail.

On general principles I am inclined to sympathize with the unfortunate husband. Of course, I do not approve of the beating he gave his mother-in-law. It was very bad—especially so because, as I say, the natural destiny of all women is at some time in life to become a mother-in-law. But I do think he is a pathetic figure.

The had thing about publicity of this kind is that good mothers-in-law—and they are legion—suffer on account of those who, like the one in this case, arrogate to themselves sole power to regulate the family affairs of their children.

As a matter of right and policy, mother-in-law who go to live with their children should be pleasant scenery—not noisy inciters to domestic fights which lead to all around unhappiness.

Are you troubled and do you need advice? The author will reply personally to any reader sending stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mexican Minister Is Given Welcome To Nation's Capital

BY DOROTHY J. LEWIS
(Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor)

Washington—Killing time between the frequent and exciting "one-night stands" of the great and near great is a difficult task for social Washington. When Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd, Wing Commander Kingsford-Smith, presidents-elect of South American countries and any number of celebrities and heroes visit, the National Capital seems to rouse itself from its summer lethargy and enjoy itself early and even brilliantly—then its slugs back again and snores.

The most recent lion of the hour in Washington was "His Excellency Luis Mondragon, Minister of Finance of Mexico," who arrived in the city on Wednesday.

One of the most interesting time-killing affairs, just before the financial minister's arrival, was the Pan-American Musical Fete on the terrace of the unbelievably beautiful Pan-American Union Tuesday night. With the late-comers among the 1,200 members of the audience, scattered about the Aztec garden, the marine band with Abigail Parecis, Brazilian soprano and Rodolfo Hoyes, Mexican baritone presented a delightful program.

Headed by its dean, the Ambassador of Mexico, the entire Diplomatic corps present in Washington attended and Cabinet members, Senators and district commissioners added to the brilliance of the company.

Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck of the State Department who took his degree at the University of Wisconsin and was recently presented with an honorary degree by Beloit College, was in the assemblage.

A moon and colored lights strung overhead conspired to make the night perfect.

Dr. and Mrs. Dana G. Munro, formerly of Madison, are now in Jasper National Park, Alberta, Canada, for a brief vacation, but are expected to return to the Capital soon and begin preparations for their journey to Haiti, to which Dr. Munro has just been appointed United States Minister.

Back from her Gold Star Mother pilgrimage to France and greatly rested and refreshed and happy to have, at last, seen the grave of her son, Lieutenant Colonel James G. B. Lampert and find it so well kept in the beautiful French Cemetery at St. Mihiel, Mrs. Florian Lampert, wife of Rep. Lampert of Oshkosh, had only a day or two of happiness before Rep. Lampert was injured in an automobile accident on his way to Wisconsin. He had left Washington on Monday.

Mrs. Lampert and her daughter, Mrs. Jessie Fisher and Little Bobby, Betty and Billy Fisher, had planned to leave for Wisconsin the end of the week, but Mrs. Lampert rushed immediately to Chicago to be with Rep. Lampert. Mrs. Fisher planned to follow her mother.

Speaking of her European trip, Mrs. Lampert said that it was delightful and that going over, she was as smooth as glass, but that coming back—well, anyhow, it was a little bit shaky.

Another Wisconsin Gold Star Mother was in Washington last week. Mrs. Mary Weber of La Crosse, who visited the grave of her son, Carl H. Weber, at Surmes, France, was met at the boat in New York by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Weber and their son, Kenneth, all of La Crosse. All four motored back to Washington and spent the week here before starting on the homeward drive. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Weber and Kenneth had already visited Washington for a week before they met their mother.

The Congressional home-going and leave-taking continues. Rep. Merlin Hull of Black River Falls and his daughter, Lois, left Tuesday to motor home. They planned to take at least five days for their trip and to go through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Mrs. Hull has been in Washington since her granddaughter, lit-

Francis, and her brother-in-law and sister, Commander and Mrs. George Murray, in London.

Miss Genevieve Hendricks, graduate of the University of Wisconsin and now a well-known interior decorator in the National Capital, sailed for Europe Thursday. She was informally at home July 6 at her new home, which is, in reality, a very old home in Georgetown. Its remodeling is not yet complete. Miss Hendricks will spend the rest of the summer abroad. She lived in Madison during her four years at the University.

However, not everyone is leaving the city though those who are staying are having a lovely time motor-ing about on short trips. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marsh of Green Bay, who have already had their Wisconsin vacation for the year, are proud-ly showing off Washington and "nearby points of interest and his-torical significance" to Mr. Marsh's mother and sister who have never been East before.

Two recent trips took in Rich-mond, Williamsburg, Yorktown and Jamestown, in Virginia and Atlan-tic City, Philadelphia, Gettysburg and Valley Forge.

Dr. and Mrs. Marsh will live in Williamsburg next year, when Dr. Marsh will make over an associate professorship in the Department of Economics at William and Mary College there.

Czechoslovakia sent its most famous and popular woman author to America last week, after several months in this country, she finally came to the National Capital, where Wisconsin people had a hand in wel-coming and entertaining her.

Madame Marie Tilsova, now quite elderly, has in the last few years, seen her novels become increasingly important and sought-after in her native land.

She arrived in Washington Thurs-day and was guest of honor that night at a dinner at the Czechoslov-akian Legation given by the Minister. Dr. and Mrs. William F. Notz, for-merly of Watertown, were among the guests. Dr. Notz is Dean of the School of Foreign Service of George-town University.

Friday, Mrs. Notz entertained for Madame Tilsova at a luncheon at the American Association of Universi-ty Women's clubhouse. It was an entirely feminine affair with the guests including the wives of the members of the Czechoslovakian Legation and members of the A. A. U. W., including Miss Grace Abbott, Chief of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor who has been much mentioned as a possible Secretary of Labor to succeed "Jimmie" Davis when he becomes Senator.

The table was charmingly decorat-ed with roses from Mrs. Notz's gar-den and there was a particularly lovely rose at each guest's place.

Saturday, Mrs. Notz was a guest at another luncheon for Mme. Tilsova, this one given by Mme. Jan Skalicky, wife of the Counselor of the Czechoslovakian Legation.

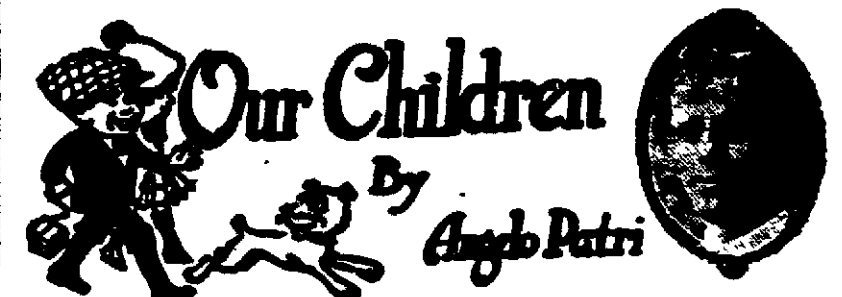

Tuesday, before all the diplomatic dinners and luncheons began, Dr. and Mrs. Notz and their three chil-dren, Natalie, Allen and William; the Minister of Ecuador, Senor Don Homero Viteri La Fronte, Senora La Fronte, their children and Senora La Fronte's sister; Mrs. Jan Papanek, secretary of the Czechoslovak-ian Legation and his wife and Mr. Andre Cattani, attache of the Egypt-ian Legation, had a hilarious out-ing at Beverly Beach near here.

The children did most of the swim-ming while their elders pulled huge sea-nettles from the water.

QUIET TIME

Life is growing noisier every day. It would seem. Motor cars fill the streets with their grinding and rumbling and honking. The river-ter sets his horrible vibrations running through the very masonry of one's house. The radio screams and howls and screeches and murmurs and sings at all hours. The victrola does its share. Bells and whistles and flat wheels, airplanes, freight trains, ragmen, children, animals, ma-chines, all lift their more or less me-lodious voices and there is no quiet in this world, not even in the church-yard. What is to become of the children who must sleep, study, think?

I always have believed that quiet was essential for the growth of chil-dren. Babies must have quiet days in which to lie and croon them-selves into growth. Growing little ones who have found their legs must have quiet afternoons for naps. Old-er children earnest in school work must have quiet hours for study and thinking and rest. ALL children must sleep long hours to rest and refresh and recreate their bodies. In our delight at discovering machinery we are likely to forget the human being who creates the need for the machines.

Laws are not helpful usually in such situations. To prohibit this and that never works unless the peo-ple will this and that to be prohib-ited. We do not want to throw out the radio and the telephone and the motors and the rest of the exciting delightful things we know and use but we must come to some under-standing of how to use them. We would not destroy ourselves and our children by misusing the machines that are to provide us with deligh-tful leisure hours.

We like fruit and sweets and good food but we know that if we indulge ourselves in any of the pleasures of the table beyond a healthy limit, we will surely suffer. We will bitterly eration most richly endowed with the gifts of science will not perish by their riches.

MENASHA—By staging a three run rally in the eighth inning and adding another count in the final frame, the Appleton Fords squeezed out a five to four victory in a hard fought battle against the Neenah-Menasha pails at Menasha. Two base hits by Bowers, Murphy and Turnover were milestones in the Collegian's eighth inning march to victory.

Dave Crowe was on the mound for the Fords, and although the slugger pails managed to pound out 13 hits, Dave kept them scattered, and faultless support made the win possible. Shawana Zenski, hurling for the Twin City squad, pitched a steady game until smothered by the avalanche of doubles in the final frames. He allowed 11 safeties.

It looked like the pails were out to take the ball game when they began scoring in the first inning. J. Weisgerber flied out to Smith, but Muench drove a double to deep left field and crossed the plate with a single, advancing to second on the play home. The side was retired when Leopold attempted to reach third after Sheleske fouled out to Bowers.

EVEN UP COUNT
The Fords evened the count in the second division when Schultz singled after two men had been put out at first. Lake drove a roller down to Powell at third base and the bad throw to first left the runner safe and Schultz squatting on the third sack waiting for things to happen. He scored when "Data" Crowe drove a base hit through the infield.

The "pails" again swung into the lead when they came to bat in the third inning. Zenski flied out to Hillman, J. Weisgerber whiffed, but Muench was safe at first when Lake muffed a grounder to short. While Harry Leopold was waiting for one he liked, Muench stole second and scored when Leopold drove a single down the third base line.

Neither team scored until the sixth inning when the "pails" began to make it look dismal for the Collegians. Leopold struck out, but Johnny Sheleske singled to left, advanced to third when Powell rapped out a long double, and both men scored when Billy Handier hit safely.

TIDE TURNS
When they came to bat in the eighth frame, the Fords began to do things in a big way. Bowers, the first man up, doubled. Smith struck out, but Murphy pounded out the second two bagger, scoring the runner. Turnover, the next man up, connected for the third two base hit and Murphy crossed the plate to bring the count to four and three. The score was tied when Turnover advanced to third on Egger's sacrifice and scored when Powell muffed Hillman's ground ball to third.

The "pails" threatened again in the last half of the frame when Powell doubled to left field, and G. Weisgerber was safe at first when a fielder's choice failed to catch either runner. Krysiak singled to left, Zenski drove a liner into the hands of Schultz at third base who caught Powell off the bag for an unassisted double play, ending the inning.

It looked like an extra inning tussle when both Lake and Crowe were thrown out at first in the first half of the ninth. Bowers the third man up, singled to left, but was safe at first when a clever steal. He scored the winning run when Smith connected with Zenski's speed ball for a safe hit. The side was retired when Murphy was thrown out at first.

Dave Crowe faced the top of the Twin City batting order when the teams went into the last half of the ninth inning. J. Weisgerber was thrown out at first and Muench rolled a grounder to the second out. Harry Leopold, the most dangerous hitter of the Neenah-Menasha squad, dropped a single in short left field, but the game ended when Sheleske drove a ground ball to Lake at short, who stepped on second base for the final putout.

Thanks Menasha

WALKER WINS FIRST ROUND IN TOURNEY AT RIVERVIEW CLUB

N. J.C. Walker won the first round in the Directors' cup tournament at Riverview Country club course over the weekend by shooting a net 63, with a 22 handicap. The second round will be played next month, and the third in September, according to Oscar Riches, club professional.

Two players were tied for second place with net 68's Harrison B. Fischer and C. L. Marston. Marston had a 26 handicap to shoot a 68 and Fischer had a 16 handicap. Third place honors went to Roy Marston who shot a 72 with a 17 handicap.

O'DOUL STEPS OUT TO PROVE THAT HE'S HEAVIEST SLUGGER

Record Not Based on Luck, Says Frankie as He Leads League

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright, 1936, by Cons. Press
New York—(CPA)—Frank O'Doul, batting champion of the National league in 1922, has begun the second western series of this season on the Philadelphia ground with a batting average of .408, and the way he is socking the old apple makes it appear he is on his way to retain his title.

O'Doul won the championship in 1929 with .398. He was always a good batter. He could hit well when he tried to pitch and when he found that pitching was less in his line and being a batting champion was better, his batting increased in proportion to the many more chances that he had to hit the ball.

If his punch had been added to the New York team in 1929, there are some who believe the giants would have won the championship. Those who are for O'Doul think the Giants would have a better chance to win if they had him this year. There has never been as much batting strength in the New York outfield there would have been if O'Doul had been retained by the Giants.

It was O'Doul's batting strength in the outfield, combined with that of Chick Klein, which made it seem as if the Phillies would be a contender in the National league race this year.

O'Doul did not start as well this season as he wished and for a time was worried about it. He is going all right now.

"Some of them called me an accidental champion last year," he said. "I just wish to prove in 1936 that I am not."

U. S., ITALIAN TEAMS CLASH IN NET CLASSIC

Paris (AP)—The Davis Cup tennis scene shifts to Roland Garros stadium on the outskirts of Paris this week as the United States and Italy battle it out on Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the inter-zone finals.

America's youthful squad, composed of George Lott, Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn, Johnny Doeg, Gregory Mangin and Berkeley Bell, has been practicing at Roland Garros stadium for several days. Italy, led by the gallant Baron Humbler L. De Mompurgo, gained the inter-zone finals for the second time in three years by eliminating Japan yesterday, three matches to two.

Although the Italians have a fine team with De Mompurgo as the key man, they will be decided second team against America's brilliant youngsters.

Attempt To Make Tennis Tourney World-Wide Event

BY LAWRENCE PERRY
Copyright 1936 by Cons. Press
NEW YORK—Efforts of the United States Lawn Tennis association to insure a wide international representation at the national singles and women's national singles tournaments seem about to bear fruit.

While nothing definite is yet known beyond the fact that an English team made up of four players headed by Bunny Austin, accompanied by three leading women players, will be here for the big matches, there is strong hope that outstanding performers of other nations will cross the ocean to these shores.

For example, a team of Germans is on the verge of decision to play here and the same attitude applies to France and Australia. The hitch in the case of the two latter nations is that they want a series of team matches arranged here—this, of course, as a means of paying the expenses of the journey. It is likely that their wish will be gratified. Finally, Cecilie Alstrom, the clever German girl, will probably come. So, at least, says Bill Tilden in a letter and he has been coaching her, he should know.

BOBBY JONES SETS HIGH RECORDS FOR GOLFERS TO BREAK

May Retire After Regaining Amateur Championship, He Says

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
New York—(AP)—The 35-year-old monarch of the links, Bobby Jones, already three-time winner in his all-conquering campaign of 1930, may retire from active competition if he completes his record-shattering march by regaining the American amateur championship at the Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia.

The emperor himself, back home today in Atlanta after his third straight victory of the year and his twelfth in eight years, has not definitely committed himself to any plans beyond competing in the last big event of the current season. But if he wins, there would be no more worlds of golf to conquer, no records to break except his own and his friends believe he will bid at least a temporary farewell to the swirling fields of championship action.

Win or lose at Merion this year, Jones has set up a mark that generations of succeeding golfers probably will shoot at in vain. When he went abroad this spring with the Walker cup team, the odds were 3 to 1 against Bobby's winning all four of the major British and American championships. He has hurdled three of the four obstacles by winning the British amateur, British open and American open within a period of seven weeks.

WEEK OFF BOAT
At Interlachen, barely a week off the boat from Europe, the experts figured Jones would show the effects of the terrific strain he underwent abroad, especially in a succession of nerve-racking matches in the British amateur tournament. It was thought the human machine might slow down.

Jones bowled over the dope, the opposition and the records at Interlachen. He shattered the course record on his third round with a 68, the best he has ever scored in the event and a performance that put all of his rivals except MacDonald Smith to rout. He finished with a 72-hole figure of 287, his own lowest in American competition and within a stroke of tying Chick Evans' all-time mark. He sank a 40-foot putt on the home green to finish two strokes ahead of his nearest rival, Mac Smith, who ended vain but gallant chase in which he was five strokes in front of Horton Smith, the young professional who led at the halfway mark.

The order of finish at Interlachen, with scores and prize money, was as follows: Bobby Jones, 287, championship cup and gold medal; Mac Smith, 289 and $1,000; Horton Smith, 292 and $750; Harry Cooper, 293 and $650; John Golden, 294 and $550; Tommy Armour, 297 and $450; Johnnie Farrell, 299 and $350; Craig Wood, 301 and $250; and $137.50 to Bill Mahoney and George von Elm, 301 and gold medals; Al Heron, George M. Smith, Die Loege and Peter O'Hara, 301 and $80.25 each; Charles Guest, Joe Turnesa, Bob Shave, Willie Hunter, Mortie Dutra, Walter Hagen, Al Watrous and Ed Dudley, 303 and $47.50 each. All those with scores of 306 or better automatically qualified for the 1931 open.

31 HORSES ENTERED IN KALAMAZOO RACES

Kalamazoo, Mich.—(AP)—Thirty-one horses are entered for the seventh running of the great American racing derby for 213 pacers, feature race of the grand circuit meet which opens here today. The derby has a purse of $25,000 of which $10,000 goes to the winner. It will be run as the second event tomorrow.

The Kalamazoo Exchange club purse for 212 trotters, with a $10,000 purse, will be run on Wednesday. Horses which fail to run among the first six in the pacing derby will be eligible for the $2,000 consolation purse on Friday. No entry fee is charged for this race.

Today's program includes four races, the 215 trot, 215 and 212 pacers and the open trot.

What the Stars Did Yesterday

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Jimmy Dykes, Athletics — hit Brown pitching for two doubles and pair of singles, drove in two runs and scored three.

Vic Sorrell, Tigers — pitched effectively against Senator and drove in winning run with single as Tigers won, 5-4.

Bill Terry and Mel Ott, Giants — divided eight hits between them and accounted for six runs against Reds. Socks Seibold and Bob Smith, Braves — held Cubs to 12 hits in double bill and Braves won twice, 2-1 and 3-0.

Larry French, Pirates — stopped Dodgers, 1-0, giving nine scattered hits.

GALLANT FOX ADDS ANOTHER VICTORY TO RACING LAURELS

Jumps from Seventh to Second Place; Beats Sande by Neck

BY ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK—(AP)—Gallant Fox and Earl Sande—best turf duo in the country—were the stars of Man O' War and Clarence Kummer today were within reach of the American all-time money winning record.

Chalking up his sixth straight three-year-old victory in the classic at Arlington park Saturday, Gallant Fox added $44,750 to his earnings and boosted his total to $274,980, only $38,659 short of the fortune amassed by Zev in his meteoric career under the silks of Harry F. Sinclair.

In achieving another triumph over the best that the three-year-old division could muster, the brilliant son of Sir Gallahad 3rd jumped from seventh to second place. This jump up the standings left such great money winners as display, Walter J. Salmon's Iron Horse; Exterminator, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's old campaigner; Man O' War, the Superior; Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt's Saracen and E. R. Larkspur in the wake of the fast traveling champion.

Gallant Fox's total winnings may mount again on Saturday if William Woodward elects to start him in the $25,000 Arlington cup race in which Blue Larkspur also may be a starter. Woodward and Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons have expressed a desire to match the eastern cold against the hot horses and before the classic selected the cup as the logical race for the Gallant Fox to make his debut out of his class.

Gallant Fox's next eastern engagement will be at Saratoga in the travels in August, and he also is scheduled to go in the Lawrence realization, run at Belmont park in September.

DEFER MILWAUKEE RACING CLASSIC

Milwaukee (AP)—Threatening weather yesterday forced postponement of the automobile races scheduled at South Milwaukee speedway. Billy Arnold, winner of the Indianapolis 500 mile classic, was among the entrants. The events will probably be run off July 27.

ATHLETICS SNOWED UNDER BY MENASHA FALCON NINE, 9 TO 0

Unable to Withstand Co-operative Attack of Polish Aggregation

BEFORE a record breaking audience, the Appleton Athletics first place leaders in the Little Fox valley league contest, dropped a miserably played game to the Menasha Polish Falcons out at Interlake park, Sunday afternoon by a score of 9 to 0.

The Menasha aggregation hitting on all six worked in perfect harmony, and with every member of the team offering his wholehearted cooperation had little trouble in setting up a record of the somewhat overconfident Athletics.

The Athletics played a loose game of ball, and were unable to find themselves until the late innings of the game, after the Polish players had counted up an impassable lead. The defeat, however, will serve the Athletics to better advantage in the remainder of the season's games. They still have first place clinched, and in future games will perhaps be aware of every trick, which their opponents may pull.

In the other fracas Sunday, the Wrightstown aggregation tripped up the Neenah Kimberly Clark team by sniping them under with a 12 to 2 score, and the Little Chute trouncing the Kaukauna nine by a score of 3 to 2.

MANDELL READY FOR BOUT WITH SINGER

Favor Sammy to Win from Bronx Scrapper in 15 Round Fracas

New York (AP)—Once more Sammy Mandell, clever champion of the lightweights, is ready to gamble his crown against the spirited bid of youth with dynamite in his right hand. Sammy meets Al Singer, pride of the Bronx in a 15 round titular battle at the Yankee stadium Thursday night.

Two years ago, a youngster just as promising as Singer and with an even deadlier punch, went into the ring with the champion at even money and came out with the worst beating of his career. He was Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver, now grown into a full-fledged welterweight. In that fight, McLarnin was cut to pieces by Mandell's accurate left hand and never found any use for the undoubted punch he had in either hand.

Expert observers believe that Singer will meet the same fate. Some critics, conceding that Singer is an almost sure-fire bet to win the 135 pound title within a year or so, believe he is being rushed into this battle with a master boxer like Mandell too early in his career.

In a championship battle at Hartford, Conn. last night, Bert Battalino, Hartford boy who holds the world's featherweight championship, will meet Ignacio Fernandez of the Philippines, who holds a three round knockout over Singer.

At Cleveland on Thursday night, Johnny Risko of Cleveland will meet Tom Heene, New Zealand heavy-weight, in a 12 rounder.

100 NET STARS ENTER CLAY COURT TOURNEY

Kansas City (AP)—Normal summer temperatures, just hot enough for good tennis, were promised the 100 players from all sections of the United States who were ready today to begin competition in the twenty-first annual National Clay Courts tournament.

Thirty-six preliminary matches, made necessary to reduce the field to 64, were to be completed before nightfall and possibly several of the first round matches decided. Doubles pairing were to be made today and play begun in that division tomorrow.

Included in the entry list were seven of the first 20 ranking players of the nation. At the head of the list, and seeded number 1, was Frederic Mercur, nationally ranked No. 6, and with J. Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J. holder of the tournament doubles title won at Indianapolis last year. Hall is seeded number 4, in the tournament. The defending singles title holder, Meet Pare of Dayton and Chicago, is seeded number 5.

FOUR SOFTBALL GAMES SCHEDULED IN LEAGUE

Two games are scheduled for Tuesday evening in the American Softball league at Roosevelt and McKinley Junior high school diamonds. The Fox River Paper company aggregation will clash with the Tuttle Press line at Roosevelt school grounds, and the Wisconsin Telephone company team will clash with the Pettibone team at McKinley school grounds.

Two games also are scheduled for Thursday evening. The Appleton Coated Paper company and Wisconsin Michigan Power company teams will meet out at Roosevelt school grounds, and the Appleton school and Appleton Chair nine will clash at Wilson school grounds.

Milwaukee (AP)—W. L. Eisenbach, Wausau, and C. Wolney, West Allis, yesterday tied for first honors among a field of 58 in the registered shoot of the tri-county trapshooting league here with scores of 89 all. J. Bonnell and F. E. Machus of Oconomowoc tied for first with 48 each in the 50-yard handicap. C. Wolney won the doubles with 48.

APPLETON POSTAL NINE WINS MORAL VICTORY AT BAY

Are Trimmed in Straight Baseball, However, by 18 to 15 Score

The Appleton post office baseball nine lost a game to the Green Bay postal nine at the park at Bay beach Sunday afternoon by a score of 18 to 15.

Arthur Kohler, who led the Appleton team, explained that Green Bay won a victory, figuratively speaking, while the Appleton nine won a moral victory. Kahler and Meinberg were the shining lights for the local team, each socking out a home run, in addition to several other hits. Meinberg modestly explained that if the rest of the team could sock the pill in the same manner as he and Art did that there is little doubt but what Appleton would have scored a figurative victory, also.

Total receipts for the game were three score heads; six injured hands; and 18 empty stomachs. The latter was quickly overcome as soon as the game ended.

One of the features of the game was Art Pirner's sensational base running. He circled the bags in 9.35 seconds.

"However," Wilmer Frank, one of the twirlers for the local team, explained, "Pirner forgot that he had only hit a three-bagger and of course his base running didn't count for much."

Meinberg and Harold Gotcher relieved Frank at the mound when Frank weakened and the Bays pounded him hard. Gotcher and Meinberg changed places behind the bat.

Others who played with the Appleton team were: Clyde Hansen, Herman Schneider and Harvey Krueger.

Manager Kahler said that he was planning to challenge the Green Bay nine again, the second game to be played on the local diamond.

"We have more of a chance when we furnish our own umpires, you know," Kahler explained.

SAINTS TRIM BREWS IN DOUBLE-HEADER

Wins Place Them Six Games Behind Louisville, League Leaders

Chicago (AP)—St. Paul and Toledo, each without shooting distance of the league leaders, Louisville and Columbus, took double headers yesterday while the Kentuckians were dropping their second game in a row to the lowly Indians. The holiday victories brought the Saints within six games of the top and the Mud-hens within six and one-half.

NEW LONDON NINE DROPS 4-2 GAME TO WEYAUWEGA TEAM

2 to 1 Lead Disappears in Last Inning as Victors Forge Ahead

New London—With both baseball teams playing a tight ball until the eighth inning, New London, then cracked and lost to Weyauwega, 4-2, Saturday afternoon.

Up to the eighth the score was 2 to 1 in the home boys' favor, but with two out in the eighth a double by Doc Munch started Westphal's downfall. Lind, cleanup man for Weyauwega, came through with his first good hit of the game, a nice double, tying the score. Lind came home, after Dutch Wahl made a scratch hit which Dohberstein and Edminister were unable to field.

Sorenson brought in Wahl on a hit through Edminister. This ended the scoring, and the locals were unable to tie the count in their last bat. Wahl, with the addition of several new players, has put a new spirit of life into Weyauwega. Dutch pitched himself out of several holes, and had an edge over Westphal. Pete got himself out of trouble several times by some nice help from the infield. He also held down several hits by knocking down fast liners so that the infield could get the runner at first. Dohberstein had a perfect day bat, getting two singles off Wahl and two doubles. Lenzie Darnbach evidently found a bat to his liking, as he was able to knock several hits off of Weyauwega's pitcher.

After New London scored in the first inning they had a chance to score in the third when Dohberstein doubled. But Westphal and Meyers were easy outs. Weyauwega lost a chance to score in the fifth when on a single Bud Sweeney made a perfect throw to Dohberstein, catching Davidson, who had tried to make third on a hit. The sixth and seventh innings were unexciting and the Weyauwega fans didn't get their money's worth until the eighth inning rolled around.

Next Sunday's game will be played on the home grounds, and Manager Graupman announces that the boys are going to put in some real batting practice to get them out of their hitting slump.

CONDUCT FUNERAL FOR MRS. VERA CORNELIUS

New London—The funeral of Mrs. Vera Cornelius, wife of P. W. Cornelius of this city, was held at 10:30 Saturday morning at the Most Reverend Blood church. The Rev. Father Dorn conducted the service.

Housewives, visiting a young merchant's store in 1859, found goods on his shelves they liked—and—as housewives do—told others.

Thus, A & P's business grew from this single store. First one customer brought another. Then one neighborhood brought another.

A & P has not forgotten why it outgrew a single store. It knows it must make good in each community if its stores are to be accepted by many.

It's Your A&P Store

As the town you live in is yours

Because A & P realizes this, the A & P store nearest you is run by your townsmen. Men in your own locality keep your store in touch with the A & P system. The food on its shelves is there because you have asked for it.

A & P is made up of many such stores, just as the United States is made up of many communities like your own. Your A & P store serves you better because it is part of a large system, just as your community suits you better because it is part of a great nation.

MIDDLE WEST PASTORS CONVEY IN CHICAGO

Chicago—(AP)—With Dr. William Chalmers Covert, of Philadelphia, general secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, as the opening session speaker, clergymen gathered today for the pastors' conference of the middle west.

In his first of six daily talks, Dr. Covert declared the "clever cynicism of moral nihilists, materialists, athletic humanists and negativists whose satirical unbeliefs shock the spiritual sensibilities of the American people."

"We have the inescapable duty of presenting this generation, so beset with intellectual and spiritual perils, a fresh, virile, pentecostal message of Christ. He must be presented in language the present generation will understand with a moral passion that cannot be resisted," Dr. Covert said.

In Dr. Covert's opinion, science and invention have created a new age and have crowned life with untold physical blessings and comforts but he contended that science has left mankind with the deep, elemental mysteries unsolved and shed a light on the major problem of men's souls.

Palmer Chiropractor

QUESTION: I am a young lady twenty years old and I am bothered with what the doctor calls hay fever. I have been under his care for about six months and I am no better. I am bothered with it every summer and fall. Can you help me. Please explain.—M. G.

ANSWER: The symptoms of hay fever are those of acute inflammation of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes. This inflammation is the nose often extends up through the tear ducts and even the sinuses and ears. It is the inflammation and congestion in the tear ducts which cause them to close and leads to watering of the eyes. Sometimes the hearing is also affected due to the extension of the inflammation into the tubes leading from the throat to the middle ear. Because the pollen of certain grasses and plants such as rye, wheat, corn, etc., irritates the nasal membrane. It is thought by the old school of healing that this pollen is the cause of the disorder. The conclusion is faulty or without any basis as to the cause of disease. Now for example other people breathe the same pollen laden air and are not affected or bothered with the so-called hay fever. Now the fact is that the pollen irritates only in cases where the individual mucous membrane is already highly sensitive. Then we must realize that some condition within the patient is primarily responsible for the susceptible membrane. It is quite true that the acute inflammation subsides if the irritating pollen is removed, but it is equally true that the inflammation subsides if the cause of susceptibility in the body is corrected. Chiropractic offers a method of correction which has proved highly successful. When the members of the A & P store have throat and bronchi are highly sensitive there is a cause for the condition. This cause lies within the spine. The Chiropractor discovers this cause and finding the interference with nerve transmission between brain and tissue, having done so it is his province to correct the cause. Chiropractic has demonstrated this in thousands of cases with the remarkable results obtained. Therefore, you should consult a competent Palmer Chiropractor.

SLOT SELLS INSURANCE

Berlin—Railway stations in Germany are being equipped with slot machines which automatically sell insurance to railroad travelers. When a coin is put in the slot a policy in the form of a ticket is issued. In most cases the policy extends over a period of one or two days.

Eight states have laws to prevent guests in automobiles from suing owners in case of unavoidable accident occurred.

PLAN TOURNEYS AT THREE PLAYGROUNDS

Entries for Various Events Being Considered Now by Director

Neenah—Tournaments to be conducted during the next few weeks are being organized at the three playgrounds by Armin Gerhardt, playground director. Entries for the annual city net tournament for boys 12 to 16 years and for boys 12 years and under will be received up to July 19, when play will start. The city singles tennis tournaments for men and women for the Anspach trophy and for boys of 16 and under for the Kelly trophy is to start July 19. Girls' tennis tournament for 16 years of age and under will start on the same date. Mrs. W. Z. Stuart has offered a trophy for a tennis tournament to be played by Columbian park girls under the age of 15 years, which is to start this week.

Boys' horseshoe tournaments for ages from 12 to 16 years and for boys under 12 years will be started July 15.

Sixteen entries have been received for the annual city horseshoe tournament, the first round of which is now being played. Mr. Gerhardt advises that all tournament entries be made at least four days before the opening date so that pairings can be made. Silver trophies have been donated for most of the events, which will be given to the winners at the close of the season. They now are on display at the Red Cross office on S. Commercial-st.

A meeting of senior baseball teams, composed of players of 35 years and over and also a meeting of the Young Men's league, has been called for Tuesday evening at which all players' names on the several teams is requested.

BOARD BACKING ISOLATION UNIT

Establishment of Hospital Near Nurses' Home Favored Once More

Neenah—Establishment of an isolation hospital in the rear of the nurses' home at Theda Clark hospital, considered about a year ago and then dropped by the city council, is proposed by the board of health. Last year it was reported that citizens had offered to erect such a building in connection with the hospital if the city would operate and maintain it. The board has delegated Mrs. W. Z. Stuart and Orrin Thompson to ascertain whether the offer still holds. If it does, the board will recommend such hospital.

The board also has approved the ordinance drawn by John O'Leary, city attorney, providing for removal of all outside toilets on streets where sewer and water services are available. The ordinance will be presented at the next council meeting Friday evening July 18.

PLAN ENFORCEMENT OF TRAFFIC LAWS

Motorists Must Stop at Arterial Highways, Sheriff Points Out

Neenah—Strict enforcement of all state traffic laws, and especially of the law relating to arterial stops, is promised in Winnebago-co, according to Sheriff Arthur Nelson. He has instructed motorcycle officers to arrest all persons passing arterial signs without coming to a full stop. They also have been instructed to watch for any law violations which by their nature might lead to accidents. Careful driving in this county will be the rule hereafter. This rigid program of law enforcement comes as a result of several serious accidents. It has been reported that motorists have been disregarding the arterial signs, and the first step of the sheriff's department will be to watch these intersections and make arrests, it was declared.

TWIN CITY DEATHS

MRS. JOHN STAFFELD
Neenah—Mrs. John Staffeld, 65, a resident of Neenah for many years, died at 6:30 Saturday evening at her home on Ann-st from effects of a fall which resulted in a stroke. Mrs. Staffeld was a member of Immanuel Lutheran church and its societies. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the church, following a short service at the home. The services will be charge of Rev. E. C. Kolstad. Burial will be at Oak Hill cemetery. Surviving are three sons and one daughter, William and Henry Staffeld of Neenah, Louis Staffeld of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Ernest Huebner of Neenah.

There also are six grandchildren and one great grandchild, and two brothers, Henry Julius of Neenah, and Charles Julius of Greenville, surviving.

NEENAH MEN RECEIVE GENERAL KING MEDALS

Neenah—Sergt. Matt Minton, Sergt. Frank Oshkosh and Corp. Andrew A. Anderson, three members of Co. I, received General King medals Sunday during the annual Governor's day program at Camp Douglas where the company is in annual encampment. The medals are given for attendance at all weekly drills while the company is home, and for attendance at the summer field camps of instruction.

Sergt. Minton, who has not missed a drill for three years, received a silver medal, while Sergt. Oshkosh and Corp. Anderson, who have not missed a drill during the past year, received bronze medals. Sergt. Emil Harder, who was on the honor roll for not missing a drill in six years, did not receive a medal at this time as he received a five year recognition last year.

MEN IN COLLISION STILL ELUDE SHERIFF

Neenah—Nothing has been heard of Harry Ford and A. R. Ball of Peru, Ind., the two men who were in the car which collided with the P. W. Cornelius car last Wednesday noon at the intersection of highways 26 and 15, fatally injuring Mrs. Cornelius. The coroner's inquest is to be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Winnebago-co superior's court at the courthouse at Oshkosh. Testimony relative to the accident will be given by witnesses.

The jury, composed of O. B. Baldwin, E. C. Rasmussen, Richard Baker, George Terko, Richard Dunn, Martin Portz and Charles Scherer, all of Neenah, viewed the body of Mrs. Cornelius and also inspected the locality where the accident occurred.

NEENAH BOY AFTER BRAND NEW MARK IN TREE SITTING

Neenah—Alois Werner, 14, has entered the tree sitting contests and has perched himself 30 feet in the air in a big tree close to the rear of the Julius Blank home on Third-st, where he intends to remain indefinitely. Werner started his feat at 8 o'clock Sunday morning and spent the day and night on a platform built among the branches. A refueling squad of neighborhood youngsters has been organized to keep Alois well supplied with food and drink and to keep him company during the daytime. Lawrence Kitchen is manager of the feat.

BOARD BACKING ISOLATION UNIT

WINCHESTER NINE IS DEFEATED BY OSHKOSH

Neenah—The Winchester baseball team, which Leonard Neubauer and Herbert Ehler of Neenah, are members, was defeated Sunday afternoon by the Oshkosh Pirates 10 and 6 at the Winchester diamond. The defeat came in the last inning when several errors were made by Winchester players.

S. Greenville Grange team defeated Clairville, 6 and 5 at Greenville diamond.

The Dale team, of which Willis and Earl Haase of Neenah, are members, defeated Berila Sunday afternoon 3 and 2 at Dale.

NEENAH AND OSHKOSH BOATS IN CLOSE RACES

Neenah—Neenah and Oshkosh Class A yachts engaged in a series of races Saturday afternoon over the Neenah course. The first event was won by the Shikouette, the new boat owned by Jack Kimberley, with the Buckstaff boat of Oshkosh second. In the second race the S. P. Shattuck boat crossed the line first with the Kimberley and Buckstaff boats second and third places, respectively. The races were sailed in a stiff wind and a rough sea. These inter-city races will be held each Saturday afternoon during the season. The Junior Yacht club races were postponed Saturday afternoon owing to the rough weather.

PLAY FINALS TONIGHT IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Neenah—Frank Thakke and Rich and Kelly will play Prange and Vetter Monday night in the finals in the Doty Tennis club doubles tournament. In the semi-finals Thakke and Kelly defeated Jack Mettenrich and Kenneth Capelle and Vetter and Prange won over Ben Mettenrich and Stodak, giving them the privilege of playing in the final of the Carlton Smith "B" trophy.

The annual Fox River Valley doubles tournament is to be played Saturday and Sunday at the club courts.

SPORTSMEN COMPLETE PLANS FOR OUTING

Neenah—Officers of the Twin City Sportsman club have decided to make the Sunday picnic at River side park a twin city wide affair and have posted notices to that effect. People attending will bring their own basket dinners. The afternoon will be devoted to games and athletic contests. The Aerial orchestra will play a concert.

JUNIOR BASEBALL TEAM PLAYING OSHKOSH NINE

Neenah—The Junior baseball team, managed by Joseph Muench, and sponsored by the American Legion, is playing a game with the Oshkosh Junior team Monday afternoon at Menasha. Recreation park for first place in this district. The game was to have been played at Oshkosh, but the schedule was changed. Both Neenah and Oshkosh teams have a clean slate, having won the games already played. Last year the Neenah team was awarded a trophy for winning second place in the state.

WHICH GIRL?

"I've a letter from a fellow who says if I don't stop taking his girl out he'll take drastic action."

"What are you going to do?"

"Nothing."

"Nothing? Why he might shoot you."

"Yes, I know. But what can I do? He hasn't signed it."—Tit-Bits.

Farmer shareholders of the Clogher Valley Railway, in Ireland, recently rejected the offer of the Government to buy the railway on the basis of 120 s shillings.

SPANISH MONARCH GOES TO ENGLAND; CLEAR ATMOSPHERE

King Alfonso Only Leaves Kingdom When Everything Is Working Well

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer
London—Alfonso XIII in Madrid—stormy weather.

Alfonso XIII in the Spanish provinces—unsettled weather.

Alfonso XIII in London—set fair.

These in England, who pretend to know the Spanish king and the problems he has to face in his country, say the above are the correct barometric readings of political weather conditions in Spain. And inasmuch as he is now in London it is presumed by his English friends that all the threatening conditions in Spain have begun to disappear.

Alfonso is never the playboy of the royal world except when there is nothing doing at home. Let there be growth about revolution, let there be demonstrations about a republic, and King Al is right on the job in his big gray stone palace in his capital city, keeping an eye on the politicians, a finger on the pulse of the army, and a close contact with his friends in all parts of his kingdom.

THE STORM CLOUDS LIFTED
With the firing of Rivera as dictator some months ago, things looked very stormy in Spain. The censorship of the press was lifted for a time and all the discontents were heard. Liberals and republicans and socialists made fiery speeches demanding a republic. Students in the universities made demonstrations. To the outsider it looked as if the king were in danger of losing his job.

But Americans, living in Spain told your correspondent on a recent visit there that none of these things was serious. One informant, who lives in Seville, said the demonstration of university students there was about as serious as if some of the boys at the University of Cincinnati went down to Fountain Square, burned a picture of President Hoover, indulged in hooting and catcalls and then went back to their classrooms and books. The same was true of Seville and Madrid and Salamanca.

Also, the politicians, having gotten their burning anger out of their chests, now felt better—worse. For the stolid, hard-working Spanish peasantry went right on with their jobs of cultivating the olive and the vine.

This is not to say that the country is contented and happy. It is not. It is full of discontents. It wants parliamentary government and a free vote. It wants lower taxes. It bitterly complains about the high cost of living. It is worried about outlets for its agricultural products and its wines. But for the moment the bitter ferment has died down. Alfonso visited Seville and found it as royalist on the whole as ever. He visited Catalonia, the most up-to-date, progressive, modern and discontented part of Spain, and was well received.

So now King Al has come over to London where he can play out. As usual, he goes without fuss or feigning to Huntington to see polo games, of which he is a passionate devotee. As usual, he is a being entertained by the Spanish club. As usual, he is going to his favorite Spanish restaurant and, thereby, giving the owner a boost and lots of publicity.

ENTERTAINED AT THE PALACE
His English wife, Queen Ena, cousin of England's king, is also in London with her daughters, the Infanta Beatrice and the Infanta Victoria. As usual, they are staying at Kensington Palace with the queen's mother, Princess Beatrice, who is aunt of King George, sister of the late King Edward and daughter of the late Queen Victoria. As usual, their visit is an informal one and they are being entertained at many informal small private dances and parties. As usual, the queen and her girls are doing some shopping, ordering some new dresses.

Also the queen and her daughters are doing some studying. On last book, the princesses are taking some instructions from a Mayfair dancing teacher in the latest steps. The queen has lately taken up golf and is going to have a course of lessons at a famous Surrey golf club.

So there you have it—King Al with his polo, Queen Ena with her golf, the royal daughters with their dancing. Does not look as if the royal family expects to be jobless within the near future.

JACQUELINE ON HER OWN

Chapter 16

SYNOPSIS: Teddy Montrose reluctantly faces the serious aspects of life. Heed by creditors he is short of everything save five pounds. With it, he splurges on dinner at Masegni's. He forgets his hunger in his attraction for a brown-eyed, brown-haired, girl dining at a nearby table. He becomes infatuated but despairs of meeting her. He tries to forget in the company of three affable strangers. Cards are suggested and Teddy trims the card sharp. The demand for the return of his profile. The argument is interrupted by the entrance of a girl from the fire escape. It is the girl of the restaurant—Jacqueline Grey—and Teddy gallantly offers himself as an escort. The card sharp demurs to his departure and attack him. He quickly disposes of them and he and Jacqueline escape in a taxi.

"YOU WONDERFUL MAN"

TEDDY SAT BACK in the darkness of the cab, the scents and scenes of the east buzzing in his brain. But that was the only thing eastern about his companion whose shoulder pressed his lightly. "Oh, you wonderful man!" Jacqueline whispered. "But I knew that you were like that, and was positive I should see you again."

After that she was quiet. And Teddy Montrose didn't speak either. He had no need to speak. He was happier than he had even been in his life. Forgotten were his financial troubles; the ladies of the Alamo chorus. His thoughts were only of her, and she had said he was a wonderful man!

He groped about until he found the switch, and turned on the interior light. Instinctively they turned and looked at each other. Then suddenly, they burst out laughing.

Presently just a suspicion of trouble came into her brown eyes. "I wish I knew what you were thinking about all this, and—er—about me," she murmured. "I wish I knew what you are thinking," Teddy countered. "I am thinking that this is a great adventure—the most wonderful I ever had. And it is worth it. Now what are you thinking?" "That the world is full of a number of things," Teddy solemnly replied.

Jacqueline knitted her straight brows over her fine brown eyes and looked at him with a trace of bewilderment.

Teddy repeated his favorite saying, looking past her out of the cab window, but taking in her delicate profile as he did so. "The world is full of a number of things," he repeated as if talking to himself.

"I give it up," said Jacqueline at last, and she was so brightly clever, but I'm too young to understand it. What's the answer?" "There isn't any answer," replied Teddy dreamily. "It's one of the eternal conundrums. I say, shall I tell you your fortune?" "Please do. If there's one thing I love above all other things it is having my fortune told."

"You are adventurous, like me," he said. "I can see adventure in your eyes."

She dropped them quickly. "I believe you are just like me," Teddy went on bludily. "You take life as it comes, and you don't mind how it comes so long as it keeps on coming. I hope you understand."

He felt he was doing well, or not too badly. He began to get more confidence.

"Life to you is like a road in which there is always a corner just a little way ahead, where you are going to find something new. Something is going to happen to you which has never happened to you before."

"Like tonight," murmured Jacqueline dreamily.

"Yes, like tonight. Nothing like this has ever happened to me before."

"Nor to me."

"And," continued Teddy, groping desperately for a new idea to continue this interesting theme. "It doesn't really matter what happens when you turn the corner—whether it is good or bad. So long as it is new it is a part of life; and all life is an adventure."

"Yes, it is just like that," said Jacqueline. "Aren't you frightfully clever?"

"There are two sorts of people in this world," Teddy went on on guard. "Those who worry, and those who don't worry. You and I belong to those who don't worry."

The warm smile which Jacqueline flashed at him confronted him. For a moment he had feared that she was laughing at him. "But all that is my character," she remarked. "You said you were going to tell me your fortune. That's a different thing, you know."

"Not so different as you may think," replied Teddy boldly. "Your fortune depends a lot on your character, you know. But one of these days you are going to find warning for you round one of those corners—something which is going to make you very happy."

"Gracious!" murmured Jacqueline. "I hope so. I suppose you will be waiting there?"

Teddy blushed. "Good Lord, no," he assured her. "I'm not such a peevish idiot as to flatter myself that I could—could influence your happiness in any way."

Something miserable crept into Teddy's voice. Jacqueline turned away and looked out of the window. She thought it quite possible that this big, crooked-headed boy, who blushed when she spoke to him, and threw grown men about the room like rag dolls, might indeed and quite easily influence her happiness. She was not so sure he had not already.

Teddy became distinctly gloomy. For a time he had forgotten himself! He had been talking to this girl as an equal. He had forgotten that he was a penniless vagrant or near-vagrant for to Teddy Montrose 250 pounds was a bagatelle.

A long and rather awkward silence intervened. Teddy, with a look of misery on his face, could not help glancing at her profile. Twice Jacqueline caught him. She also blushed and looked away.

Presently she could no longer stand the thought which was tormenting her. She turned right round and faced him bravely. "Why are you looking at me like that?"

Teddy blushed more than ever and stammered: "I—I don't know. I just felt that I had to look at you. I say, I don't mean to be rude, or anything like that, but I just couldn't help looking at you."

"Were you looking at my nose?" "Yes—your nose?" gurgled Teddy. "No, I was looking at your face."

"You were looking at my nose?" "At my nose. You are looking at it now."

"Well, I can't look at your face without looking at your nose."

"Is it red?"

"Good Lord! No! It's the sweetest, most entrancing—"

"I did not ask you if it is the sweetest, most entrancing—I asked you if it is red."

"Well, perhaps it is a bit, just the least bit in the world on the red side."

"I thought as much," murmured Jacqueline, resignedly.

She produced her little powder-box and pad and began attending to the troublesome feature.

Teddy turned his head away discreetly, but had to look again before the operation was completed. He caught an arch glance from her brown eyes, her small head tilted sideways towards him.

"Do you like red noses, Sir Lancelot?"

"Yes," murmured Teddy hopefully. "Then I think you are going to like mine quite a heap."

"I am," replied Teddy. "But I say, you've got my name mixed up with somebody else. My name is Teddy Montrose. Who is Sir What's-his-name? Is that the fellow you were dining with at Masegni's tonight?"

"No, Mr. Montrose," answered Jacqueline, demurely. "That's the name of a gentleman in a poem who wears shining armor and rescues damsels in distress."

BEAUTY ASPECT OF NO IMPORTANCE IN RIVER HARNESSING

Commission Must Consider Facts Only in Wolf River Case

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Wash. Corps.
Washington.—The Federal Power commission is not allowed to consider the question of the preservation of the scenic beauty of the Wolf river in the Menominee Indian reservation when determining whether or not to grant a power license to the Wisconsin Power and Light company for development of five power sites there, under an opinion just handed down by the attorney general.

The power company, an Insull subsidiary, holds a preliminary permit for construction of five power dams and plants on the Wolf river, at Keshena Falls, The Dells, Sullivan Rapids, Big Eddy Falls, and Smoky Falls, the most scenic portions of the river. The permit was to have expired last Feb. 10 but was extended until next Feb. 10. The company has not yet applied for the 50-year license on which the preliminary permit gives it an option.

The Wisconsin Chamber of Commerce, the Wisconsin Legislature and other organizations and individuals have protested against the proposed power development, while the Indians, who would get revenue from it, are represented as favoring it. Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton introduced a bill which was passed by the House of Representatives but not by the Senate directing a survey to determine whether or not this part of the Menominee reservation should be made into a national park.

Attorney General William D. Mitchell has just rendered a decision, at the request of Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, acting chairman of the Federal Power Commission, on questions submitted by the commission with reference to the application of the Cumberland Hydro-Electric Power

CENTER INTEREST IN VIEWS TOWARD WHEAT REDUCTION

Three Sections of Country Affected Differently by Low Prices

Special Dispatch to Post-Crescent
Kansas City, Mo. —(CPA)—With the tour through the wheat belt last week by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Chairman Legge of the farm board, preaching the gospel of reduced acreage for next year, interest has centered in the producer's attitude toward the proposal.

Unquestionably there is much opposition to any dictation or suggestion from the farm board as to crop methods. However, the price level of wheat has been a great disappointment and it is realized that something must be done if better times are to come for the wheat grower.

Three sections are differently affected. The eastern portion of the farm country, where land is selling at $75 to $100 a acre, cannot afford to raise wheat; it can raise other crops. The central portion, with somewhat cheaper land, can play fairly even with 60-cent wheat, but

YOUNG LUTHERANS MEET IN CLEVELAND

10,000 Persons Attend Opening Services on Augsburg Confession

Cleveland, O.—Approximately 2,000 young Lutherans from nearly every state in the Union today opened business sessions of the 55th annual International Lutheran League convention which will last through Thursday.

Among proposals scheduled to be taken up by the delegates is one for a new constitution for the league, which is now in a critical stage and soaking rains are essential to growth. However, there is time yet for improvement and the next few days can be stood without great damage.

also can produce legumes and corn. The high plains cannot raise corn, but can raise wheat profitable in mass production at 50 cents a bushel or less.

There may be some effect on the first and second—but the third is resentful of any reduction of acreage. Indeed, it is plowing up virgin soil now for expanding last year's sowing. The farming corporations—one used 35 combines and harvested 300,000 bushels this season—declare they will increase acreage.

The harvest just finished had the merit of perfect harvest weather—hot, clear, windless. The yields are generally above expectations and quality exceptionally good. This, of course, lessens somewhat the loss in price. Grain holding continues popular and the average producer has faith that before winter he will get a dollar a bushel.

Weather that favored wheat has been a strain on the corn, which

E. J. Gallmeyer, Fort Wayne, Ind., was to deliver the president's address. Reports of officers and departmental heads also were due. Ten thousand persons attended the opening services yesterday in celebration of the 400th anniversary of the issuing of the Augsburg confession, which next to Luther's small catechism, is the most important confessional document of the Lutheran church.

Speaking on the convention motto of "Content for the Faith," Dr. O. C. Kreinhader, president-elect of Valparaiso, Ind., university, told the delegates that "nothing is more worth contending for than our faith."

He asserted that "there is no more fighting its forces, and that men argue that we must renounce the creed. By many Bibles is no longer regarded as God's infallible

NUMBER OF INMATES IN STATE PRISONS INCREASED IN 1929

428 More Persons in Badger
Penal Institutions in Last Fiscal Year

Madison—(AP)—At the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, the state's penal institutions had 428 more inmates than at the end of the previous fiscal year, according to figures compiled by the state board of control.

A gain of population was registered in three of the four penal institutions. Only at the Industrial Home for Women at Taycheedah were there more inmates at the end of the previous year.

At the end of the 1929 fiscal year, the population at the state prison at Waupun was 1933. A year later it was 1335, a gain of 272. A similar proportion was recorded at the state reformatory at Green Bay. At the end of the 1929 fiscal year the institution had 559 inmates a year later 715. The Central Hospital had the Criminal Insane at Waupun had 213 inmates for the former year and 245 for the latter. The Women's institution had 85 in 1929 and 82 in 1930.

With the exception of the Industrial Home for Women, all institutions showed an increase in the number paroled. In 1929 the board of control paroled 68. The following year, 115 inmates were paroled. During 1930, the board paroled 234 from the reformatory, one more than during the previous year. The paroles at the women's institution totaled 26 in 1930 and 25 the preceding year. No paroles are given from the hospital for the criminal insane. Many of those paroled have not gained their releases, however, inasmuch as the board of control must first find work for them.

Applications for parole increased only at the reformatory. In 1929 there were 648 inmates who sought their freedom while the following year 711 sent in applications. At the state prison 331 asked for paroles in 1930 as compared with 338 in 1929. Eighty-seven women at the women's institution at Taycheedah asked for liberty in 1929 and 78 made requests in 1930.

The board of control's statistics also indicate that the proportion of paroled prisoners remaining on the "straight and narrow" path is about the same in all institutions. Apparently the fear of returning to the cells of the state prison is no greater than that of going back to the cells at Taycheedah or Waupun hospital.

Of the 38 paroled in 1929 from the state prison, 11 violated their parole. Two committed new felonies. The following year the number of violators dropped to nine but the number of those committing new felonies jumped to three.

At the state reformatory, 33 out of the 233 paroled in 1929 violated their paroles. The following year, when 224 were given their freedom, 37 violated paroles. Of the 70 parole

NOTED CHILDREN'S BOOK AVAILABLE AT LIBRARY

"Kitty, Her First Hundred Years" the best children's book of the year, can be obtained in the children's department of the Appleton public library. While attending the annual convention of the American Library association in Los Angeles, Calif., this summer, Mrs. Nellie Harriman, former children's librarian, saw Rachel Field, author of the book, receive the Newberry prize for the best children's book of the year.

At the time of the presentation, Miss Field, who wrote the book in conjunction with Dorothy Lathrop, illustrator, told how she happened to write the story.

An old-fashioned doll in a Boston show window attracted her so strongly, she said, that she wanted to buy it, despite the fact that she felt she could not afford the luxury. She mentioned the desire to Miss Lathrop, the illustrator, who prevailed upon her to purchase it and write a story about it. When she came back to purchase the doll it was gone from the window, but upon inquiry the two women found it in the store and were able to buy it. Upon this doll is based the fascinating child's story of "Kitty, Her First Hundred Years."

Seven of the 35 women paroled from the women's home in 1929 violated their paroles while the following year only three of the 26 were violators.

REAL INVESTMENT RATING HELD BY DELAWARE ROAD

Dividends Have Been Paid
on Stock Without Interruption Since 1880

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press.
New York—With no funded debt of its own although there are over $10,000,000 in bonds of leased railroads which are guaranteed as to principal and interest, the stock of the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western has long commanded an investment rating. There is only one class which is of $50. par and outstanding to the amount $84,411,200. On this stock dividends have been paid at one rate or another without interruption since 1880.

The record goes back to 1854 since which time there have only been three periods when the shareholders went without some return on their investment. Those three periods were 1857 to 1861, 1877 and 1877 to 1879. In recent years the rate has been 12 per cent or $6. a share regular with a $1. extra annually. However the margin over and above dividend requirements has not been large. Earnings per share have been as follows: 1923, $7.63; 1924, $8.67; 1925, $8.54; 1926, $10.61; 1927, $9.31; 1928, $7.17; and 1929, $7.20.

In the first half of 1930 there has been a sharp falling off in both gross and net with the present outlook for the hard coal trade. The management is experienced and efficient. In the Interstate Commerce Commission plan the road is linked up with the Van Sweringen group but the New York Central has a substantial interest in the stock.

NEAR COMPLETION OF SCHOOL REPAIR WORK

The repair work in the public school buildings is completed with the exception of the work at the high school and First Ward school. A new heating plant is being installed in the latter building.

All varnishing, painting, weather-stripping and other repair work is finished, but all buildings still must be cleaned.

MAIL CARRIED ON STATE AIR LINE SHOWS INCREASE

Post-Crescent Wash. Bureau
Washington—While the total number of pounds of air mail carried over all the air mail routes in the country was lower in June than in April, the Chicago-Minneapolis line, which serves Wisconsin cities, increased.

In June, 20,635 pounds of mail were carried over this route as compared with 19,942 pounds in the longer month of May, and 18,876 in April. The Chicago-Minneapolis route is 503 miles long.

The decrease for the country as a whole is explained by the fact that June is a 30-day month while May has 31 days. While the total poundage sank from 687,953 pounds in May to 680,660 in June, the daily average rose from 26,425 pounds in May to 27,226 in June.

Rice Association members of California estimate mud hens and blackbirds have caused damage of $250,000 to the crop.

Washing never was a problem, but ironing! Ironing always took such a lot of time and was such an effort. I was almost tempted to send it all out to be done. But, of course, I much prefer to keep it at home, it saves money, my linen lasts so much longer and it does just the way I want it. Then I got a Simplex Ironer. Now—I don't see how I ever got along without it. It does all my ironing, every bit of it, does it perfectly, and in just exactly a third the time. There isn't a bit of effort or exertion in ironing with a Simplex. All I have to do is to guide the pieces through while sitting just as comfortably as I am now.

The HOUSEHOLD CASH LOAN PLAN

how it enables families to get $100 to $300

Here is a Cash Loan Plan that makes $100 to $300 available to husbands and wives on a strictly confidential basis. No other signatures are required.

Think of this: A Loan Plan that makes it unnecessary for you to appeal to friends for money or endorsements, yet does not require you to put up stocks, bonds, or real estate for security.

There are no fines, fees, or deductions under this Plan. No inquiries are made among friends, relatives, or of your employer. You get the entire amount of the money you borrow and you may take as long as twenty months to repay. Charge is made only for the actual time you keep the money, and our rate is nearly one-third lower than the lawful rate.

When emergencies arise, come, write, or phone to the nearest Household office. Tell the Manager there that you need money to pay past due bills, for a sudden operation, for necessary repairs on your home, or for any other good reason, as the case may be. You'll find him ready and willing to help you with a loan of $100 to $300. If you cannot call to see him, he'll send a representative to your home.

In this community Household makes loans of less than $100 at a slightly higher rate than the rate on loans of $100 to $300. Come in—Write or Phone.

You will find Household Managers to be friendly, courteous advisers in all home financial problems. The experience gained in rendering family financial service for the past fifty-two years is back of these men. They will be glad to give you the benefit of this accumulated experience as well as their own training in arranging a budget plan to suit your needs.
